Mayor Issues Defense Day Proclamation

Mayor Morris Block has issued a proclamation calling upon the residents of Kingston to properly observe Defense Test Day here on Friday. The proclamation follows:

The President of the United States and the Governor of the State of New York have designated Friday, September 12th, as Defense Day. In order to comply with their request that all civil and military organizations participate in this general demonstration, for it is the duty of all our people to tak part in the activities of this day and of vital concern to all that our country take stock of our military resources so that we may be prepared to defend ourselves in case of a National Emergency.

Therefore, I, Morris Block, Mayor of the City of Kingston, request that all factories and places of business arrange to release their employes at 12 o'clock noon on this day so that they may have the opportunity of participating in the parade arranged by the committee in charge and I also direct that the heads of the various city departments close their respective offices at the same hour and that all city employes participate in this demonstration.

Given under my hand this ninth day of September, 1924.

MORRIS BLOCK, Mayor.

Charges Check Was Worthless

Local police headquarters received word this morning from the Albany police that they held R. C. Van Wagonen, a former resident of this city, under arrest on a warrant that was recently issued to Walter S. Wells of Albany avenue extension by City Judge Harry E. Schirick. Sergeant Hanley left this morning for Albany for Van Wagonen, who will be brought here for arraignment.

According to the information sworn to by Mr. Wells, he had accepted a check for $1,300 drawn on the New York State National Bank of Albany by Van Wagonen, and the check had been returned to him as worthless. Wells charges Van Wagonen with grand larceny in the first degree.

Mission Services Largely Attended

The mission being conducted this week at St. Mary's Church by the Vincentian Fathers, for the women of the parish is being largely attended. Masses are being offered every morning at 5 and 8:15 o'clock followed by instructions. In the evening at 7:30 o'clock the rosary is recited followed by a sermon and concluded with benediction. The fathers are eloquent speakers and each evening brings larger gatherings.

Next week the mission will be conducted for the men. The mission was brought to St. Mary's to prepare the parish spiritually for the diamond jubilee celebration, which will take place in October.

BRITISH COURT REFUSES INJUNCTION TO DUCHESS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, Sept. 10.—Vacation court today refused the request of the Duchess of Westminster for an injunction restraining her husband from ejecting her from his home, Bourbon House, in Berkeley Square. The domestic troubles of the Duke and Duchess date back about a year.

In refusing the request Justice Tomlin ruled that an injunction was not justified. An injunction, he said, would, in effect, exclude the husband from his own house.

The Duchess of Westminster is now visiting in New York. She has recently attended social affairs on Long Island where the Prince of Wales was a guest and danced with him.

LAND SLIDE DELAYED WEST SHORE TRAINS

Train service on the West Shore railroad was held up for a considerable period of time this morning due to a land slide at Fort Montgomery, near Bear Mountain Park. Until the slide was cleared up about ten o'clock, passengers were transferred around it.

Excelsiors Will Parade.

Excelsior Hose Company will take part in the Defense Test Day parade on Friday, and all members are requested to be at the engine house on Hurley avenue at one o'clock Friday afternoon. The company will march to the Strand to take its place in line. A special meeting of the company will be held Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock to complete arrangements for the parade.

Tongue Property Sold.

Frank S. Hyatt of the Ulster Realty Agency has sold for Frank S. Tongue, his six room dwelling, located at No. 150 Highland avenue, to Joseph F. Deegan of this city. Mr. Deegan will conduct his plumbing business from this address, and will take possession October 1st. Mr. Tongue has purchased a business in Hudson, N. Y., and has already moved to that city.

Couzens Leading In Michigan

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Detroit, Sept. 10.—Senator James Couzens has won a hard fought battle from Federal Judge Arthur J. Tuttle for the Republican nomination in yesterday's primary, incomplete returns indicated today. Couzens has rolled up a comfortable lead in the upper peninsula, wiping out Tuttle's early advantage in central and southwestern Michigan. Couzens will be returned victor by 25,000 to 35,000 it was estimated.

Governor Alex Groesbeck easily defeated his field in the Republican gubernatorial contest.

Rotarians to Present Play

"A Womanless Wedding" to be Produced at Kingston High School Auditorium by Local Club on October 7 and 8.

Miss Clementine Miller and her sister, Miss Ann Miller, are in Kingston arranging with the Rotary Club to put on "A Womanless Wedding" in the Kingston High School Auditorium on October 7 and 8, for the benefit of the Rotary Club's Crippled Children Fund and the Boy Scouts.

Miss Clementine Miller is author and producer of the play, which has been given in various parts of the country by Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs, and is an artistic production. The theme of the play is the pursuit of an old bachelor by an old maid and his final capture. All of the parts in the play, both male and female, are to be portrayed by the members of the Rotary Club. The tallest man in the club is slated to play the bride and the shortest man the groom.

There will be a number of vocal and dancing numbers introduced during the performance. There will be choruses by young married matrons and high school girls, young society girls, young bachelors, children from 6 to 8 years of age, and also a newsboys' chorus.

Miss Miller and her sister recently produced the "Womanless Wedding" in Oneonta where the Rotary Club there made a big hit with the play. It is said to be hilariously funny.

At the Rotary Club noon meeting today the Miller sisters were present and called the first rehearsal for Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the Fair Street Reformed Church.

Colonel N. B. Stewart of West Point was the speaker of the day and explained the purpose of Defense Test Day.

Legion Auxiliary To Parade

The attention of the members of the American Legion Auxiliary is directed to the following notice:

Members of the American Legion Auxiliary will meet on Ferry street, near the Rhinebeck Ferry on Friday afternoon, at 1:30 o'clock to participate in the Defense Test Day parade. There will be automobiles to convey all those who do not care to march.

MRS. ROBERT J. HUDLER.

State May Sue For $50,000,000

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 10.—Preparations were made today by Attorney General Carl Sherman to bring suit against the Federal Government, if the consent of Congress can be secured, to recover $50,000,000 in personal income taxes collected by the government in 1866-67 and 68.

With the approval of Governor Smith, Sherman appointed George Gordon Battle of New York, and former attorney general Charles D. Newton of Geneseo, as special deputies to begin the action.

After the Federal Government had collected $50,000,000 in personal taxes from New York state residents, the United States Supreme Court declared the law unconstitutional.

The case will be brought in the Federal Court of Claims, if Congress consents, Sherman said.

"If we are successful in this action the state will make an honest effort to return the money to the heirs of the persons who paid their taxes. It it planned to have at least half a dozen other states in which similar taxes were collected ,to join with New York state in the action."

ARGENTINE DIPLOMAT IN PAJAMAS CAUSES ANXIETY

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, Sept. 10.—A daily mail cablegram from Tokio declares that Dr. Uriburu, the new minister from the Argentine, is causing the manager of the Imperial Hotel there untold anxiety by parading through the lobbies, attired in cool, but unconventional pajamas. The manager fears complications if he tells the minister this really isn't being done.

London, Sept. 10.—Sir Harold Smith, member of Parliament and noted barrister, died today.

Prince's Party's Jewels Stolen

Burglars Make Haul of $150,000 at Long Island Estate Where His Entourage Are Guests.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Sept. 10.—Jewels valued at $150,000 were stolen by burglars from the mansion of J. S. Cosden, millionaire oil man, at Sands Point, L. I., it was learned today.

Lady Mountbatten, who with her husband accompanied the Prince of Wales to this country, was robbed of gems valued at $50,000 to $75,000. The Hon. Mrs. Richard Norton, another member of the Wales entourage, was another victim, as were other guests of the Cosdens.

Most of the booty, it was learned, is covered by insurance issued by American and British firms. These companies have placed their own investigators and private detectives on the case.

The robbery is believed to have occurred early yesterday morning. Information as to how it was effected has been withheld, but it is reported the robbery occurred at a time when Mrs. Cosden, Lady Mountbatten, Mrs. Norton and other guests were at the mansion.

Lady Mountbatten is the former Miss Edwina Ashley, one of the richest young women of England. Her fortune comes from her uncle, Sir Ernest Cassell, an intimate of the late King Edward VII. Lord Mountbatten is a grandson of Queen Victoria and a cousin of the Prince of Wales.

Gillett Won in Massachusetts

Speaker of House of Representatives Nominated for Senator in Republican Primary—Walsh Renominated Without Opposition.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Boston, Sept. 10.—Incomplete returns in yesterday's primary elections today showed conclusively that Speaker Frederick H. Gillett received the Republican nomination for United States Senate and that Lieutenant-Governor Alvan T. Fuller will be the Republican candidate for governor.

Gillett received 89,455; Louis A. Coolidge, 54,576, and Frederick W. Dalinger, 45,206.

The Republicans nominated State Senator William S. Youngman for state treasurer and Alonzo Cook was renominated for state auditor.

The only important contest in the Democratic primary was the selection of a candidate for lieutenant governor. John J. Cummings of Boston was leading by an overwhelming pluarity over his two opponents as compilation of the votes were being completed.

United States Senator David I. Walsh was renominated without opposition and Mayor James M. Curley of Boston, was named for governor by the Democratic without a contest.

CURRENT OFFERINGS AT THE THEATERS

The Myrkle-Harder Company will present this evening at the Opera House, "Help Wanted." At the performances Monday and Tuesday this company has made a very favorable impression with large audiences.

"The Ten Commandments" will be shown at the Opera House on September 18, 19 and 20.

This evening at the Keeney Theater "Manhandled," Gloria Swanson's latest production for Paramount will be screened. Gloria is said to be different in this production as far as the picture characterizations are concerned.

At the Auditorium today "The Shadow of the East with Frank Mayo, Mildred Harris and Norman Kerry. This story was written by the author of "The Sheik."

The final showings of the Paramount picture, "The Guilty One," will take place at the Orpheum tonight. Agnes Ayres is featured in the principal role of the production, the very last word in murder mysteries. Five excellent vaudeville acts are also on the program. Commencing tomorrow and continuing Friday and Saturday the management offers one of the biggest pictures of the year. Pola Negri, in "The Shadows of Paris," a thrilling story of Paris's upper and underworld that packs the thrills of both. It is first run Paramount picture. Then there are four acts of vaudeville.

WORK PROGRESSING AT ST. MARY'S CHURCH

Work has begun on the razing of the old St. Mary's Church rectory with a large force of men employed. On the site now occupied by the rectory will be constructed a convent for the Sisters of St. Mary's school.

The work of remodeling St. Mary's Church is progressing rapidly. The new rectory, which is about completed and furnished, is one of the finest structures in the city.

BLAZING AUTOMOBILE CALLS OUT FIREMEN

An alarm of fire was turned in about 8 o'clock Tuesday evening from Box 19, when the Liberty automobile of Albert Schussler of this city backfired, setting fire to the machine. The damage to the automobile was not heavy.

Caverly Going In Seclusion

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Chicago, Sept. 10.—Following the decision sending Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb to prison for life, Judge John R. Caverly warned everybody including newspaper men, that to follow him might mean death.

"I want no one, not even newspapermen, to follow me when I leave this court room. Anyone will be arrested who does so, and even more serious consequences might be the result. I shall go immediately to a loop hotel and leave town late today for a destination I do not want made public."

Flyers Will Stay In Washington

To Wait for Defense Day Activities —President Coolidge Hopes America Will Always Keep First in Flying.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Sept. 10.—The United States army round the world flyers will stay over in Washington for the Defense Day activities on Friday leaving for Dayton and the west on Saturday, Secretary of War Weeks announced today.

Only two of the ships were at Bolling Field this morning—the Chicago, of Lieutenant Lowell Smith and Lieutenant Leslie P. Arnold, and the Boston of Lieutenant Leigh Wade and Lieutenant Henry Ogden.

Lieutenant Erik Nelson's New Orleans is parked between Baltimore and Washington, Nelson having been forced down near Halethorpe, Md., by stripped timing gears.

The tentative schedule now being followed will bring the circumnavigation of the globe to a conclusion about September 20 at Seattle.

In a formal statement of welcome to the flyers, President Coolidge said that a "New record of achievement has been made in the past six months in the domain of aviation."

"It has been your skill, your perseverance, your courage that has brought this great honor to our country," the President said. "In what is probably the greatest opportunity for future scientific development of transportation your enterprise has made America first. I trust the appreciation of your countrymen will be sufficient so that in this field America always will be kept first."

Ulster County Scouts to Parade

The following order has been issued to the Boy Scouts of Ulster county.

The Boy Scouts of Ulster County will report with troops in regulation uniforms at the Rhinebeck Ferry on Friday afternoon, at 1:30 o'clock to participate in the Defense Test Day Parade.

All individual scouts are expected to report and they will be assigned to troops in the line of march.

All scouts out one hundred per cent of loyalty to our country and the Boy Scouts of America.

EDWARD LEUDTKE.
Acting Scout Executive.

Polo Postponed To Saturday

Chicago Slayers' Youth Saves Them From Death

Judge Caverly Imposes Life Sentence on Leopold and Loeb for Murder, and 99 Years for Kidnapping—In Accordance With Progress of Criminal Law, He Says, Not to Execute Minors—No Mitigating Circumstances—Slayers Calm.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Criminal Court Room, Chicago, Sept. 10.—Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., and Richard A. Loeb, the gay young collegians who kidnapped little Bobby Franks, bashed his head in with a cold chisel and stuffed his lifeless body into an isolated drain pipe today were sentenced to spend the remainder of their natural lives behind the walls of the Illinois State Penitentiary at Joliet in expiation of that crime.

"The defendants will be sentenced to the State Penitentiary at Joliet for the rest of their natural lives."

They also were sentenced to terms of ninety-nine years in the penitentiary on the kidnapping charge.

That was the pronouncement of Judge John R. Caverly, founded upon the pleas of guilty; pleas that though they were legally and morally sane, they were mentally twisted, queer, irresponsible; pleas that they should not die "because it would only compound the crime if these two boys were to hang by the neck," but should be put away for the remainder of their natural lives.

It was the verdict the defendants' relatives hoped for—the verdict Clarence Darrow, the shaggy old veteran of scores of hard fought legal battles, pleaded for with all his eloquence during the trying days of their long drawn out trial. It was the crowning achievement of his brilliant legal career, a career spent defending the accused and from which he now will retire—satisfied. This verdict did away with all possibilities of further litigation. It was more than any of those interested in the defendants had dared to hope for and they are content.

Slayers Smiled.

The defendants looked bored. They looked toward their bailiffs and smiled and in a moment they were back again in the bull pen.

The decision was read and sentence pronounced while the defendants remained seated. They were not called to the bar as is customary in such cases nor was the usual formula—"have you anything to say why sentence should not be pronounced against you?"—gone through with.

The entire procedure took less than ten minutes and twenty minutes after the case was called the court room was emptied. More than a score of persons—bailiffs, photographers and newspapermen—were clustered about the bench so that it was hardly possible for even the defendants to see the judge. He read rapidly and clearly but his words were almost lost in the shuffle in the court room.

No Criticism from Crowe.

Immediately after the verdict was pronounced, States Attorney Robert E. Crowe issued this statement:

"When the state's attorney arrested the defendants, solved what was then a mystery and by the thoroughness of his preparation compelled the defendants to plead guilty, presented a mountain of evidence to the court and made his argument, his duty was fully performed. He is in no measure responsible for the decision of the court. The responsibility for that decision rests with the judge alone. Like all other law abiding citizens, when the court pronounces his decision, I must be content with it because his decision in this case is final. While I do not intend and have no desire to criticise the decision of the court, I still believe that the death penalty is the only penalty feared by murderers."

Exactly at 9:30 o'clock Leopold and Loeb walked through the narrow door leading from the "bull pen" to the court room where for weeks they sat as spectators while attorneys battled over their lives, and took their accustomed places in chairs facing the bench. A father, old and broken with grief, watched one of them steadily. A brother and an uncle, their eyes only telling of the mental torture they were suffering, fixed their gaze on the other. These living victims of the murder of Robert Franks were Nathan Leopold, Sr., and Jacob M. Loeb, uncle of Dicky, and Allan Loeb, his brother.

The young defendants, dressed as if for a morning on the college campus which they so recently left, surveyed the scene with a detached interested glance. A half hundred cameras clicked and the slayers smiled. It was not they, but some one else who was to be sentenced for murder, it would seem to the observer. There was none of the nervous fumbling of coat lapels, of shifting of eyes, which had been predicted. They were the cool, calm intellectuals, getting another thrill out of a boresome existence. The court room, crowded with newspapermen and police, was balm to their ego. They were supermen.

A nation had its eyes upon them. They were more important in the day's news than the round the world flyers and they were bursting with their importance.

Loeb's father and mother were not present. Miles away at their summer home, they were awaiting word of the verdict by telephone. A doctor's order, which warned them that death would surely come if they attempted to brave the strain of those few brief minutes in court, kept them from their son's side.

Jacob Franks, father of little Bobby, who sat silent and forlorn throughout the long days of the trial, was also absent.

Judge Caverly started reading his decision immediately. And the defendants listened with rapt attention.

Text of Judge Caverly's Opinion

Only Two Cases of Minors Put to Death in Illinois—Boys Not Normal—Advises Against Action by Parole Board.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Criminal Court Room, Chicago, Sept. 10.—The text of Judge Caverly's decision in which he finds Leopold and Loeb should be imprisoned for the rest of their natural lives, is as follows:

"In view of the profound and unusual interest that this case has aroused, not only in this community, but in the entire country and even beyond its boundaries, this court feels it is its duty to state the reasons which have led him to the determination he has reached.

"It is not an uncommon thing that pleas of guilty are entered in criminal cases, but almost without exception in the past, such pleas have been the result of a virtual agreement between the defendant and the state's attorney, whereby, in consideration of the plea, the state's attorney consents to recommend to the court a sentence deemed appropriate by him, and in the absence of special reasons to the contrary, it is the practice of the court to follow such recommendations.

"In the present case, the situation is a different one. A plea of guilty has been entered by the defense without a previous understanding with the prosecution and without any knowledge whatever on its part. Moreover, the plea of guilty did not in this particular case, as it usually does, render the task of the prosecution easier by substituting admission of guilty for a possibly difficulty and uncertain chain of proof.

"Here the state was in possession, not only of the essential, substantiating facts, but also of voluntary confessions on the part of the defendants. The pleas of guilty, therefore, do not make a special case in favor of the defendants.

"Since both of the cases, that namely of murder, and that of kidnapping for ransom, were of a character, which invested the court with discretion as to the extent of the punishment, it became his duty under the statute to examine, both as to the aggravation and mitigation of the offense. This duty has been fully met. By consent of counsel for the state and for the defendants the testimony in the murder case has been accepted as equally applicable to the case of kidnapping for ransom. In addition, a prima facie case was made out for the kidnapping case as well.

"The testimony produced, both by the prosecution and the defense, has been as detailed and elaborate as though the case had been tried before a jury. It has been given the widest publicity, and the public is so fully familiar with all its phases, that it would serve no useful purpose to restate or analyze the evidence.

"By pleading guilty, the defendants have admitted legal responsibility for their acts; the testimony has satisfied the court that the case is not one in which it would have been possible to set up successfully the defense of insanity, as insanity is defined and understood by the established law of the state for the purpose of the administration of criminal justice.

"The court, however, feels impelled to dwell briefly on the mass of data produced as to the physical, mental and moral condition of the defendants.

"They have been shown in essential respects to be abnormal; had they been normal, they would not have committed the crimes. It is beyond the province of this court, as it is beyond the capacity of human science in its present state of development, to predicate ultimate responsibility for human acts.

"At the same time the court is willing to recognize that the careful analysis made of the life history of the defendants and of their mental, emotional and ethical condition, has been of extreme interest and is a valuable contribution to criminology. And yet the court feels strongly that similar analysis made of other persons accused of crime, would probably reveal similar or different abnormalities.

"The value of such tests seem to lie in their appliability to crime and criminals in general. Since they concern the broad questions of human responsibility and legal punishment, and are in no wise peculiar to these individual defendants, they may be deserving of legislative but not of judicial consideration. For this reason the court is satisfied that his judgment in the present case cannot be affected thereby.

"The testimony in this case reveals a crime of singular atrocity. It is, in a sense, inexplicable; but it is not thereby rendered less inhuman or repulsive. It was deliberately planned and prepared for during a considerable period of time. It was executed with every feature of callousness and cruelty.

"And here the court will say, not for the purpose of extenuating guilt, but merely with the object of dispelling a misapprehension that appears to have found lodgment in the public mind, that he is convinced by conclusive evidence that there was no abuse offered to the body of the victim. But it did not need that

Crime Unique in Crime Annals

College Students, Considering Themselves Supermen, Planned "The Perfect Crime"—Lost Eyeglasses Furnished Clue That Led to Arrest.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Chicago, Sept. 10.—This, one of the most hideous murders of modern times, was discovered in May with the finding of the mutilated, acid-burned body of little Bobby Franks, 13, heir to a $4,000,000 fortune, in the stagnant sewage of a culvert under railroad tracks on Chicago's outskirts.

For two weeks it was what the slayers had intended it to be—a perfect crime. The shrewd brains of Chicago's best detectives were balked in every direction to which they turned for a clue that would reveal the identity of the persons who kidnapped the boy and then wrote a letter to his father, Jacob Franks, demanding $10,000 ransom.

Then the one fault (that prevented the crime being a thing of perfection and which led to a solution) was found. That was a pair of horn-rimmed spectacles dropped near the body by one of the killers. These glasses provided the only means police had of tracing the assassins. There was no case with them—just the glasses.

They were painstakingly taken to various optometrists about the city, each of whom was asked to examine the grinding and measurements to see if they were his work.

One at last reported that the glasses conformed in every detail to a pair that had been fitted upon Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., son of a millionaire paper box manufacturer.

Motive Lacking.

It seemed unlikely that such a person would write a ransom letter, with millions at his beck, or murder another, yet the circumstantial evidence was strong, and police arrested the nineteen-year-old University of Chicago student and with him, his inseparable companion, Richard Loeb, also nineteen, the son of Albert Loeb, millionaire vice-president of Sears, Roebuck & Company.

As police expected, the boys denied having had anything to do with the crime. They answered questions freely. The state's attorney found out much that was interesting about both.

Leopold, he learned, spoke half a dozen languages fluently. Indeed, he had studied and mastered Italian only because he wished to translate a book by an Italian who enjoyed the doubtful distinction of being an authority on many weird manners of sex perversion.

Leopold was also a student of birds and had written a book on the subject. For twelve hours he withstood, without emotion, questions artfully calculated to break through his armor of unconcern. His skillful answers made it seem certain that the murderer could not have been he. And yet—the glasses fitted his eyes.

The questioners turned to Richard Loeb, called "Dickie" by classmates and co-eds impressed with his good looks.

Loeb Confesses.

"Dickie," while brilliant and clever enough, was not of the intense intellectual type that was Leopold. His fencing with questions, too, was less skillful.

For twelve hours he was plied, with questions, each so framed as to say, indirectly, "We know you're guilty!" He was told that Leopold's glasses had been found and traced and that Nathan had confess-

WIFE BEATING IN MARYLAND TOWN IS HALTED

Ancient Law Recently Revived in State a Deterrent.

Hagerstown, Md.—Wife beating is out of style in Hagerstown.

Before Lewis Longbeam battered his wife's face almost to a pulp and then asked the judge what he was going to do about it, wife-beating was commonplace. But when Judge Scott Bower answered Longbeam with: "I'm going to sentence you to 15 lashes," the practice suddenly waned.

Along with several others of the blue laws, the whipping law still stands good on the Maryland statute books. It had seldom been invoked, but Judge Bower, glancing down the docket, noticed the growing number of wife-beating cases. He announced that the next case to come before him would be treated as of old. And Longbeam's case happened to be next.

With a blackened, swollen eye and several teeth missing, Mary Longbeam looked on interestedly as her husband was haled before the bar. But as the judge pronounced sentence, her manner changed.

Wife Would Wield Lash.

Pressing her way to the front of the courtroom, she addressed the judge. "Let me lash him, judge! I'll stand on my toes and cut the blood out of his back. Let me give him a dose of his own medicine. What chance has a frail woman against a brute like him? He slaps me as if I were a child. He throws me about like a chair. He beats me like a dog. Let me lash him, judge!"

But the Maryland law provides specifically that the lashing be administered by the sheriff, so Mary Longbeam lost her chance to hand her husband a bit of his own medicine.

The Man Gasped and Grit His Teeth.

Sheriff Duffey got out the old cat-o'-nine-tails, with its five rawhide thongs each split in two. As Longbeam had been sentenced to 15 lashes, this meant 150 stinging cuts in his back.

Thousands Listen for Wails.

Longbeam was taken to a vacant section of the jail, handcuffed to the bars of a cell, and the sheriff began his punishment. Outside thousands waited, hushed, hoping to hear the screams of the wife-beater getting a dose of his own medicine.

The cat-o'-nine-tails whistled through the air and its ends bit into the flesh of Longbeam's bared back. The man gasped and grit his teeth. After ten lashes the flesh shaded from a fiery red to a greenish blue. When the fifteenth lash cut in, it tore the flesh on his left shoulder blade and the blood trickled down and soaked into the white underclothes drawn back over his belt.

Outside the jail gate his wife was waiting. As he came out she shook her fist in his face and cried:

"You brute. I hope they gave it to you good. If only they'd let me lash you! You'd never walked out of here. You'd have been carried."

But, regardless of whether the lashing was severe enough to suit the beaten wife, wife beating has taken a decided slump in Hagerstown.

Girls Must Not Wear "Knickers" in Louisiana

Hammond, La.—The newly ordained law of the county commissioners of Livingston parish prohibiting, among other things, the one-piece bathing suits, kissing, "petting" parties and the wearing of trousers by women, had its first tryout when two pretty nurses, claiming to hail from Mississippi, were arrested at Denham Springs, charged with wearing "knickers." They were taken before a justice of the peace, entered pleas of guilty and were assessed fines of $5 each.

Plans to Cross Sea in "Unsinkable" Boat

Manchester.—A craft 12 feet long will shortly start on a journey across the Atlantic with its builder and skipper, William Oldham, at the helm, according to an announcement given out by Oldham.

The boat is made of steel, with eight water-tight chambers, which the builder claims makes it unsinkable. Oldham proposes to propel the boat by his feet, and is fixing pedals for that purpose, but the pedals can also be used with the hands, which will give William an occasional rest.

The First Meistersinger

Heinrich von Meissen, who died at Mainz, Germany, in 1318, was the founder of the first school of Meistersingers. The women of Mainz, whose praises he sang, carried his body to his tomb in the cathedral.

Fate Was Against His "Making Good"

Kingman, Ariz.—Antone W. Wroblewskie, Detroit war veteran, who was released from the California state prison after a skull operation to relieve him from criminal tendencies resulting from shell shock, was buried here with full military honors.

He was on his way home to his fiancee when he died from "delayed effects" of the operation. After his conviction for robbery, as a "dangerous criminal," he was adjudged insane, but the judge was convinced of his recovery after the operation and helped obtain his release.

"VET" OF MANY WARS STILL CARRYING ON

Steeplejack at 67, After Life of Adventure.

Syracuse, N. Y.—"I've got to carry on!"

So said Frank Clark of Arizona, when his brother, Melvin Clark, fell off a high beifry in Detroit, Mich., and was killed. And Frank has been carrying on ever since. At sixty-seven he is a human fly and steeplejack.

All his life Frank has climbed. He is one of the survivors of the battleship Maine, blown up in Havana harbor; served as a drummer boy during the Civil war, and has brought up a family of 19 children.

"Yes, 19 of them," said Frank, exhibiting for the benefit of the wondering newlywed from New Orleans his youngest son, Mike. "Two girls and 17 boys. And each of the boys has done one or more 'itches in the army, and Mike's gonna do 'is, or he ain't no son o' mine."

"How old are you, Mr. Clark?" asked the youthful husband, meekly. Frank wouldn't tell so Mike chirped the information.

Exposed, Mr. Clark admitted he was "sixty-seven and maybe more." "Served in the Civil war as a drummer boy, fought during the Indian uprising, in China during the Boxer uprising, and put in three years with the First division in France during the World war," Clark recited, proudly. "I got my upward start on the battleship Marblehead."

Smuggle Narcotics With Aid of Radio

Philadelphia.—With the discovery that prisoners in the Eastern state penitentiary were using radio as an aid to smuggle in narcotics, there also has been revealed considerable ingenuity in the construction of miniature sets to evade the subsequent drastic edict forbidding radio instruments, prison officials said.

The ruling became necessary when a visitor repairing a convict's instrument in a cell, received a radio message in code detailing a scheme to bring narcotics into the penitentiary in a rubber ball thrown over the walls.

Investigation showed that the message was sent from a small portable set near the prison.

The sets constructed by the convicts to evade the ruling have been found to vary from tiny ones to fit the palm of the hand, to more pretentious sets concealed in out-of-the-way places. In general, bed springs have been used for aerial connections, with water pipes or steam pipes for "grounds." One set, seized since the order banning them, was contained in a Bible. The convict had hollowed out the center of the volume, leaving only the edges of the pages intact, and in the hollow portion had built a highly efficient set.

Elephants Increasing

Laws to protect elephants in Africa have apparently begun to accomplish their purpose, for the animals are again increasing in numbers. Only a few years ago more than 50,000 elephants a year were slaughtered for their tusks and it was feared that they would become as nearly extinct in other parts of Africa as they are in the region south of the Zambesi. There is no longer any Cape market for ivory; most of the ivory trade now centers in Mozambique.—Youth's Companion.

Heifers Had to Swim

Four heifer calves belonging to Sam Carson of Hermiston, Ore., involuntarily made a record long-distance swim. The heifers strayed away from the herd and fell into a concrete-lined canal. The water was too deep for them to wade and the sides were too steep for them to scale, so the animals had to swim or perish. They were noticed by a farmer nine miles below the Carson place and removed by use of ropes.

Power of Attorney

Power of attorney is written legal authority to transact business for another. If one man gives another legal power to act for him the second man's authority is called a power of attorney.

Valuable Gifts For First Dutch

Judge Sharpe and Sister Remember the First Dutch Church With Two Beautiful Paintings—Deed to Sharpe Pew Also Granted to Consistory.

In finally disposing of the old Sharpe homestead, one of Kingston's landmarks, now to give way to The Governor Clinton Hotel, Judge Sharpe and his sister, Mrs. Eva Davenport, have severed one of the vital links that for generations has bound that family to Kingston.

Their interest in the historic old First Dutch Church has always been deep-seated and their affectionate regard to this day for the church has not diminished in the least. In their final leavetaking, as far as residence is concerned, they remembered the church with two beautiful paintings, one the picture of the Christ; the other a large masterpiece which is described in the letter addressed to the consistory of the church and which reads as follows:

"It will give me pleasure to present to the church, to be hung in the chapel at the rear of the desk, a painting from the house of my father, the late General George H. Sharpe.

"It is a copy of the picture painted by Andrea del Sarto about 1515. The subject is the Virgin and the Child with Saint Francis and Saint John, the Evangelist. The original is in the Uffizi Gallery in Florence, Italy. It is rated as the artist's masterpiece in oil painting.

"I will send the painting to the church as soon as I am advised of the wishes of the consistory.

"Very sincerely yours,
"SEVERYN B. SHARPE."

The Sharpe pew, No. 70, occupied by the family since the building of the present edifice in 1852, will continue to bear the name plate of the Sharpe family on its door. The deed to the pew was granted to the consistory by Judge Sharpe on condition that it is not to be rented, but to be used solely for guests and visitors. The judge, in addition, turned over to the consistory three long term bonds that bear the rate of five per cent interest, to endow the pew with a very substantial income. The following letter was addressed to the consistory of the church explaining this gift:

"In behalf of my brother, General Henry G. Sharpe, my sister, Mrs. Eva Davenport, and myself, we offer to convey to the church, pew No. 70, and at the same time establish a trust fund to provide for the rent and maintenance of the said pew. The pew to be held by the church in trust for the use of strangers and visitors at the services.

"We make this gift in behalf of our parents, General George H. Sharpe, and Caroline Hasbrouck Sharpe, his wife.

"Very sincerely yours,
SEVERYN B. SHARPE."

In announcing these gifts to his congregation Sunday, the Rev. Lucas Boeve stated that this was a most commendable way in perpetuating the memory of loved ones not only to whom the church had meant sacrificial service and devotion but that it was a beautiful way in maintaining one's life interest in a living and vital cause.

He stated that it is always a cause of genuine gratification that the men of standing and influence and leadership so appreciated the value of the church in its community.

After the morning service many of the congregation filed into the picture room to view the paintings. A large congregation was present.

She Claims to Be 120 Years Old.

SENORA MARIA de CHAVOYA

Said to be the oldest citizen of California, perhaps of the entire United States, Senora Maria Antonia Lonjina Masimo Verdugo de Chavoya recently celebrated her 120th birthday at Los Angeles.

Odd Fact About Tobacco

A striking feature in the history of tobacco is the fact that its use has become so universal in the European countries where it was formerly so bitterly condemned—even punished with death—while it has become quite rare among its inventors, the Indians of Mexico. Very few of these now ever smoke, and none of them take snuff.—Exchange.

Lucky Criminals

The Braganza, one of the largest diamonds in the world, was found by three criminals, who had been sent into exile among the cannibal tribes and wild beasts in the Brazilian interior. They took the stone to a priest, who turned it over to the governor. The gem became the glory of the crown jewels of Portugal, and the king, in gratitude, pardoned the exiles.

No Belt or Sash in Latest Modes

Silhouette of Straight Lines Makes Impression by Lack of Curves.

It is evident that many cherished fads are vanishing. Some of the styles already established are being exaggerated and translated, and some new extremes are predicted, says a Paris correspondent in the New York Times. In dress there is no longer anything in a name. A blouse, according to the latest style, reaches to the knees. This is one of the conspicuous novelties shown for autumn.

Ever since the normal waistline began to be dropped, the belt, or the line supposed to indicate it, has been completely erased, and now the straight silhouette is straight indeed. That which we called a tunic a year ago was a curveless overdress that was at least slightly held in about the low waistline. In the models of advance styles there appears not a suggestion of belt or sash; there is just the curveless line to the knee and below, and it is labeled an overblouse. It is a trying style and is becoming only to a very slim figure, though it likely will be worn by many others.

Necessarily, the skirt over which this blouse is worn will be straight and narrow, and Paris says short—almost as short as the just-below-the-knee length that was so startling when it made its appearance several seasons ago. The skirt in other types of gowns is to be fuller.

Some skirts will be gathered full, some extremely bouffant, and in others the effect of fullness will be gained with flounces, gathered, plaited or circular. The circular flounce and the circular skirt are so graceful and give such a piquant effect that they are expected to have a vogue.

Circular Shaping of Materials.

The circular shaping of materials is particularly attractive in gowns of crepe, chiffon, voile and all the other soft stuffs. Such gowns are charming when cut in points as they attach to the skirt foundation, and they flutter and swirl as one walks. It is the single design among the new models that has a universal appeal, for the graduated fullness and the points are quite as flattering to the lady of embonpoint as to her of the sylphlike form.

In the flounced frocks the bodice invariably extends, as heretofore, to the hips, giving the soft effect, now popular, of an uncorseted figure. It is without darts or other details and is sometimes drawn tightly around and wrinkled below the waist. From the point of the hips, and in some styles from the knees, the plaited or frilled bias ruffles fall. Evening gowns done in this manner are enchanting when made in the fragile silk and metal laces.

Doucet has beautiful dinner gowns in this mode and adorns some of them with bead and jeweled embroidery. Drecoll, too, is using the flaring flounce, and Redfern has created some things of marked distinction for evening wear, making the most artistic combinations of metal tissue and lace. Nothing could be more beautiful than a ball gown of black chantilly lace veiling a sheer frosty tissue cloth of silver and rose.

Other houses, notably Chanel and Callot Soeurs, are flouncing their gowns in one way or another. Paul Poiret revels in flounced skirts, making them the feature of his frocks of mousseline. It is predicted that we shall see many variants of this type of gown for all occasions.

Paul Poiret is an ardent advocate of the normal waistline. His lighter frocks are belted at the waist. Some of his prettiest models, one in particular of organdie, are ruffled from the belt down and have ruffles in bertha shape atop a bodice with a slightly oval and youthful neckline. Mme. Vionnet, with Jean Patou and others of equal prestige, is quite firm in her championship of the high—that is, the natural—waistline.

Normal Waistline to Return.

That the normal waistline will be re-established is made much more certain by the vogue of the "period" gown, for the full skirts and tight-fitted little bodices can be built in only this manner. These, in dancing frocks, in costumes for bridesmaids and in gowns for fancy dress affairs, have greatly increased in favor during the past few seasons. Because of them some designers prophesied the return of the crinoline, perhaps of the hoop-skirt. But those things, in a day of sports dress and no stays, would be a paradox, and they have small chance ever to be used again. The full skirt stiffened about the bottom or simply gathered at the belt makes demand, however, for the belt at the place where it is practical and comfortable. Naive as some of these models appear, they have apparently come to stay.

One feature of the prevailing fashions that are shown in some of the models of the season is the ostrich-feather trimming. Its popularity during the winter swept the novelty into extravagant display, and no one thought it would last. But the couturiers of Paris found such delightful ways of introducing ostrich that it is already on its way in many enchanting colors and forms.

A graded ostrich, the willowy strands of which are cut different lengths, is one of the handsomest trimmings yet shown. It is light as a summer cloud, delicate and caressing, and gives to a gown the most fairylike effect. It is especially lovely in the evening models, the tulles, chiffons and tissues, and in shimmering silks made dazzling with brilliants. A slender band of this ostrich trimming fringes the edge of circular flounces and draperies and results in the most airy and fantastic things imaginable.

Most of the prominent designers are using ostrich in some way on their dressier gowns and wraps. Martial et Armand bands a satin evening coat deep with ostrich and forms a collar of it. Poiret is using the lightest thistledown ostrich on his evening gowns, and he is a past master in the art of fashioning bouffant frocks. Molyneux is doing some successful dinner gowns in the straight silhouette in which he introduces contrasting colors with the deep ostrich fringe. One of his last models, a fringe of knotted ostrich, made just as silk fringe is made, is shown under the edge of the crepe skirt drapery.

Life of Ostrich Trimming.

Whether ostrich for trimming and wraps will last cannot be foreseen, but it is a lovely novelty. It is dyed in the most entrancing colors; in the glowing red named flame, in coral, apricot, orange and every other known shade of yellow; in purples, orchid, mauve, lavender and violet.

Along with the ostrich the exclusive shops are offering marabou in many colors. Nothing could be more lovely than a silver-white tissue bordered with coral marabou, or gilt tissue with brilliant orange. A simple dancing frock of silver gauze shot with green is translated into a work of art with bands and fringe of jade-green ostrich.

Whether these colors will endure through the season it is not possible to predict, for Paris changes her color mood about once every fortnight. Today black and white is extremely smart, and beige is equally fashionable. Much white ostrich tipped with black and beige dipped in flame is shown in the handsomer gowns of satin, crepe chiffon and the tinted laces.

Chic and ornamental things in informal footwear are seen. Boudoir slippers, mules of satin and silk, are embroidered or hand-painted and are trimmed with artificial flowers, lace or ribbon rosettes and ostrich feathers.

The fancy for classic designs is seen in some of the new jewelry, particularly in earrings, which are shown in most exaggerated styles. There are masks of gold suspended from slender chains; there are figures such as appear on old Greek or Egyptian pottery. Such ornamentation is trying to any but a woman of distinctly classic type. Other ear decorations consist of large rings, balls and oblongs of semi-precious stones hung from chains to touch the shoulder. These are so extreme among the other wild fancies in jeweled earrings as to foreshadow the fashion of no earrings at all in a short time, for this is the history of styles.

League Farmers Hold Certificates

Majority of Farmers Perfectly Willing to Keep Their Money Invested in Dairymen's League Securities.

According to an announcement made at the New York office of the Dairymen's League Cooperative Association, Inc., at the end of last week, up to that time only approximately $213,000 worth of Series A certificates had been offered for sale to the association in response to its offer to purchase $588,000 worth. Officials of the organization say that apparently the great majority of League farmers are perfectly willing to keep their money invested in these certificates because they know that they are worth 100 cents on the dollar.

The first offer of the association was to purchase all certificates of Series A ending in the figure zero. The total face value of this lot was $430,000 but only $162,000 worth were offered for sale. This left the association with a balance on hand for further purchases. The board of directors then voted to add $150,000 to this and announced that the League would buy all Series A certificates ending in the figure 8.

From present indications it looks as though further drawings will have to be made before the association will be able to find sufficient investment for the funds it has set aside for this purpose.

The price paid for such certificate is 95 cents plus accrued interest.

Bishop Wilson Improving.

Dr. George W. Grinton, district superintendent of the Methodist Church for the Kingston district, has received further word recently from Mrs. Luther B. Wilson, wife of Bishop Wilson, stating that the bishop is improving steadily every day. Bishop Wilson has been ill in a Baltimore hospital with an attack of double pneumonia but has evidently passed the crisis successfully and strong hopes are now held out for his recovery.

Ten Companies Formed in Ulster

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, Sept. 10.—Automobile bus lines continue on the increase in various parts of the state, the past two months showing rather more than the usual number incorporating. A report issued today by Secretary of State Hamilton covering the activities of the corporation bureau during the past summer, reveals a total of 13,270 companies of all sorts and descriptions, as having been formed and incorporated as against 13,043 during the same period a year ago.

Although July's totals represented a gain over last year, there was a marked slump in August, as compared with the same month in 1923. The total for this year, however, will unquestionably run a matter of several hundred companies over 1923.

During July and August no less than 617 real estate firms were incorporated, the same two months bringing to light 52 new motion picture companies and 107 garment-making concerns.

In Ulster county ten companies, aggregating $142,000 in capitalization, were incorporated during the past two months.

Inspector Gave Tests.

Inspector Joseph A. O'Donnell of the state motor vehicle bureau gave road tests this morning to about 25 local applicants for chauffeur license on Broadway and Hoffman street.

KINGSTON, N. Y., SEPT 10, 1924.

Fortunately for the people the campaign will be short Very little can be done until after the state conventions the latter part of the month. Then before things get under way there will be only four or five weeks of spellbinding.

According to report the authorities of Venice have decreed that the gondola shall be propelled by a gasoline-driven motor instead of by a man standing in the stern and employing the one long oar. Alas, that such centuries old picturesqueness and beauty should thus be sacrificed to convenience and speed

The Steuben Society, successor of the German-American Alliance, is free to swing the German-American vote to LaFollette if it can—in revenge upon both Democrats and Republicans for uniting in the war on Germany, but it will find, as its parent did before it, that the policies of this country can not be controlled in the interests of any foreign country

When putting the old straw hat away it would be well to take a glance around to see if the old fall top coat is worth another wear Then if you have time it might not be unwise to inventory to see whether some of the other winter necessities are all right. To know how you stand is never poor business It is poor business not to know.

Mars having deliberately "cut" the earth in passing (within 34,000,000 miles), the astronomers of the Lick Observatory "have concluded the planet is not inhabited" They now say that the supposed "canals," being fully 100 miles wide, are too big to be man-made. They might have thought of that difficulty before, as indeed some "Missourians" did whenever the alleged canals were mentioned.

Democrats seem to be worried about how Dawes will explain this, that and the other thing Dawes, however, is not worried a-bit When he gets ready he says what he thinks, does not dodge or evade and offers no apologies He has not been disturbed to such an extent that anybody has discovered it so far He is perfectly capable of taking care of himself, judging from the way he is acting

While radio makes it unnecessary for people to leave the old fire side to hear the speeches of the different political parties, the fact is people like to see the man or woman who is doing the talking It adds a bit of zest to it, but if it is not possible to get to the meeting the radio does the trick In a big campaign it is reasonably consistent and to expect large gatherings when candidates for President and Governor are on the platform

A FEW "HOWLERS."

In the English comic press much is made of "howlers" (ludicrous mistakes) and especially popular are parliamentary mixed metaphors, such as an imperialist's promise to 'plant the British flag on the crest of every wave" and the description in the House of Commons of an official as "a fish out of water riding roughshod over the feelings of the community" We have had our share of this sort of thing in our legislative bodies, such as the criticism of a political opponent on the ground that "he never opens his mouth without putting his foot in it," but many of our most amusing "howlers" are found in shop window and other signs Among some recently reported are the following: 'Selling out at a loss on account of partnership desolation;" "Panamas bleached, ladies a specialty," "No dog allowed on these premises unless accompanied by an older person," "The management reserve the right to exclude any lady or gentleman whom they think proper." A window advertising "moist notions" and "moist dry goods" is rendered explicable only by the information that the proprietor's name is Moist.

But the funniest are reported from shops in Japan seeking the business of English speaking travellers. For example: "Ladies have fits upstairs" (dressmaking); "Ladies' furs made up out of their own skins" (furrier); "Resistant wet-coat maker" (raincoats); "European head cut" (barber shop); "Ripe eggs" (corner grocery); "Ladies washed inside and out" (laundry).

TONSILS AND HEART DISEASE.

One of the large London hospitals has given out some startling figures about heart disease.

Your doctor has likely told you that most of the heart cases were due to some poisoning in the system. That it could come from the throat, the nose, or elsewhere.

This hospital states that over eighty per cent of the heart cases under the age of thirty, showed infection in the tonsils, and that in patients over thirty years of age, the number showing the same cause was over sixty per cent.

But an even more surprising statement was, that of all these patients, only one-third ever remembered having had a sore throat at any time In other words the infection did its work so quietly, so stealthily, that the patient didn't know his tonsils existed, in so far as pain was concerned

However, on close questioning, many of them admitted that although their tonsils or throat was never sore, that they had felt hard lumps under the jaw.

What does this mean?

That these lymph glands were draining the poisons from the tonsils, so that the tonsils were not congested, were not even sore, but from these swollen, poisoned lymph glands, the blood was carrying the poison to different parts of the body including the heart.

As you know, these lymph glands try their best to keep too much of the poison from escaping from them into the stream.

They try to get rid of it in such small quantities, that the system can take care of it without any harm being done.

But sometimes the poison is so strong, too much gets into the stream, or the resistance of the body is low, and then those harmful substances simply poison the blood stream itself, and it in turn poisons the lining walls and valves of the heart, and you have what is called heart disease

That many tonsils are removed simply because they are large is only too true The wholesale removal of these large, smooth tonsils where they are not obstructing the breathing is condemned generally by the profession. But where there is a history of repeated attacks of tonsilitis, or quinsy, or where there is a persistence or recurrence of the glands under the lower jaw, you would only be fair to your youngster or to yourself, if you would consult your family doctor These glands are a definite sign of infection from the tonsils (or probably the teeth,) and should be a warning to you to get the factor removed that is producing the poison.

Remember the percentage of heart cases due to infected tonsils.

FEEDS CONTINUE TO RISE; MAKE DAIRYMEN THINK

The advance in feed prices has been less marked during the past month than previously, says Professor H A Hopper of the state college of agriculture here Three feeds have declined in price, barley, oats, and cottonseed meal ' Corn, gluten and linseed oil meal have been among those making the largest advance over the previous month s quotations

Professor Hopper says that comparison of prices and manipulations of statistics cannot hide the fact that milk is selling on too narrow a margin for profitable production Grain prices are unequivocally high The farmers realize it, and are buying less feed, and are using more and more their own home grown feeds to avoid stimulating the feed market and to save actual outlay on their part

Conservative action is advised by Professor Hopper at this time He suggests the possibility of a rise in the price of milk to correspond with the higher grain and feed prices so that the margin for the milk producer may remain the same instead of decreasing still further He urges dairymen at this time of extremely small or no profits to investigate carefuly the quality and efficiency for production of their herds He says that feed prices are not responsible for scrub bulls and poor cows and that the worst economy is to pay for the maintenance of animals now that hardly return their keep in times of ordinary prices and reasonable profits

Dairy League Farm Statistics

League Dairy Farm of Eight Million Acres With a Million Cows—Interesting Statistics Based on Recent Survey.

This week's issue of the Dairymen's League News carries a feature article containing some interesting statistics about the eight million acres of farm land owned by members of the association. The statistics are taken from a recent survey made throughout the membership of the league.

The article pictures the total acreage of league farmers as a single dairy farm of nearly nine million acres, larger than the state of Idaho or the states of Maine and New Hampshire combined. Of this over four and a half million acres are under cultivation upon which are raised crops with a total annual value, including milk, of nearly $217,000,000.

Over four million acres are in pasture and woodland supporting more than a million head of cattle, worth $72,000,000.

The survey shows that the average league farm consists of 125 97 acres of which 66 6 acres are under cultivation, 57 62 acres are in pasture and woodland, 1 75 are in orchards The total sales of milk from this league herd of a million cows amounted to $75,000,000 this last year This includes, of course, manufactured milk products as well as fluid milk

The striking feature of the survey is that it shows to what extent the dairy farmer is also a diversified farmer This is shown by the fact that the value of the annual supply of milk produced on league farms is considerably less than half the total value of all products For instance, and poultry, $2,500,000 worth of horses, $14,000,000 worth of eggs and poultry, $2,500,000 worth of hogs three-quarters of a million dollars' worth of sheep and wool, $300,000 worth of honey and so on Hay and forage is worth $61,000,000 Cereals and grain, $21,000,000 Vegetables, $27,000,000. Fruit $11,000,000.

On a basis of these figures the value of crops produced by the average league family is around $3,100

Other interesting facts are that league farmers own 45,000 silos; 5,000 have radio sets, 59,000 have automobiles, 12,000 own motor trucks, 32,000 use gasoline engines.

When Prince and Judge Joked

Death Had No Terrors for Judge Clearwater or Prince of Wales When They Met at Niagara Falls.

There is in the window of Ralph D. Clearwater on Wall street, the photograph presented by the Prince of Wales on his former visit to this country to Judge Clearwater of the prince, his staff and the judge taken at the base of the cliff at Niagara Falls.

On that occasion the prince came to Niagara at the invitation of Judge Clearwater, as president of the State Reservation Commission, it being his intention to go from Niagara direct to Washington and pay his respects to President Wilson. When he reached the international boundary he was informed by cable from the Privy Council at London that the president at that time was too ill too see him, and that it was thought discourteous for him to cross the international boundary without proceeding at once to Washington. Thereupon he sent his equerry to the American side with an invitation that the judge and his fellow commissioners join him upon the Canadian side, which they did.

The judge and the prince made the trip together over the aerial railway crossing the gorge. When they were at the center and there was but a single wire between them and eternity, the prince suggested that if the wire was going to break, it would be a good place for them to drop together. The judge told him that if ever there was a safe time to make the trip, it was that morning, because the officials on both sides of the river had examined every possible peradventure of disaster, and there would be none.

All the persons in the group other than the prince and the judge constitute the staff of the former, with the exception of the Right Honorable P. W. Ellis of Toronto, who stands on the judge's right, who was and is the president of the Ontario-Niagara Reservation Commission. The photograph was taken at the request of the prince and a copy of it hangs in his library at Marlborough House, London.

THE SPINACH MYTH.

Other Vegetables Which Are Equally as Healthful and Desirable.

Spinach has achieved undue notoriety.

It has become the password for health education in the schools.

Most teachers are afraid of spinach. They declare that the mothers at home refuse to cooperate with them in their health program unless they can guarantee to teach Skinney and Flossie to like spinach.

The excessive emphasis on spinach became apparent at a recent gathering of some of the leading teachers of health among the elementary school teachers of the country. All were winners of the $500 prize scholarships given in fifty cities by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, through a contest conducted by the American Child Health Association.

Some of these teachers assembled in conference at Columbia University for the summer courses, declared that one of the most important elements in teaching health to school children was the cooperation of the parents. But when they seek to secure such cooperation, the majority of them declared, they run into the obstacle of spinach. Mothers insist on making this the test of the success of their instruction.

An investigation reveals the fact that spinach is but one of many green vegetables which contain the healthgiving mineral salts and vitamins. Other fresh vegetables, such as beets and lettuce, are just as good.

Further investigation revealed the fact that there are vast numbers of children and adults who have always liked spinach, and finally if a child objects to spinach, because it is stringy, it is easy enough to cook it smooth.

Still the spinach myth persists. Some authorities declare that the prominence gained by spinach is due to the unusual and distinctive name.

MUSK-OXEN

There was great excitement among the Musk-Oxen, for nine new Musk-Oxen had just arrived.

"Tell us about it up in Greenland," they said. "What is the weather like up there? Have you been having nice weather?

"How are the old folks?

"Did you wander around the bleak parts of the country as we used to do?

"You stayed far up North, didn't you?

"How do you like it here?

"Now, tell us frankly, what is your opinion of the zoo?"

The nine new Musk-Oxen laughed a little, though their faces were rather solemn for the most part. The others were glad to see the new friends and relatives and they asked questions so quickly that the new Musk-Oxen couldn't get a chance to answer.

But at last they did.

"How can we tell how we like it here when we have only just arrived?" said the first Musk-Ox among the new arrivals.

"The old folks are well," the second Musk Ox said.

"It was nice and cold up in Greenland," said the third Musk-Ox.

"Yes, weather pretty fair, though we're never fussy," said the fourth Musk-Ox.

"But I'd say we'd been having fairly decent weather," said a fifth Musk-Ox.

"Yes, we stayed right up pretty far North," said a sixth Musk-Ox.

"And wandered around where it was very bleak," said the seventh Musk-Ox.

"I cant tell much about the zoo as yet," said the eighth Musk-Ox, "but it looks all right."

But the ninth Musk-Ox had no question to answer and so he asked one.

"Tell me," he said, "do you still follow the good old ways of using your own umbrellas? Of course, we do, but we didn't know if you'd changed your ways since coming here."

"No," said Mr. Musk-Ox who had been in the zoo for some time, "we haven't changed our ways. It used to amuse the people at first when the keeper would tell them that over our brown, thick hair, the thatch-like hair which is so straight and long, always acted as an umbrella for us, or a waterproof, and shed the rain.

"People used to think it quite strange, but they envied us, for we never can be caught in the rain without being able to look out for ourselves.

"Sometimes they call us Musk-Sheep and, though we're half-way between sheep and cattle, it is not correct to call us Musk-Sheep.

"Musk-Ox is the family name.

"Miss Musk-Ox, over yonder, is a bit cross at times. She won't let any Musk-Oxen younger than herself in the same yard with her.

"She makes life miserable for them by bossing them all the time, as she has such a temper, but they keep the younger ones away from her, so she is all right.

"Oh, it is very pleasant here, and you will enjoy it.

"We're glad you've come. There are not many around who come from our part of the world and who can talk over old times and over the scenery we know.

"Well, we welcome you, Musk-Oxen relatives."

And the nine new Musk-Oxen seemed quite pleased to be so welcomed and to have their own relatives on hand, or on foot, or on feet, to greet them.

It really made it extremely nice.

And it kept them from suffering with musk-oxen homesickness for the far, far lands up North.

The aim of the home-maker should be to create such an inspiring home atmosphere for her children that they will absorb it and make it a part of their lives.

WARM-WEATHER FOODS

A dessert which will be enjoyed during the warm days is:

Molded Fig Custard. — Soak one-half package of gelatin and dissolve it in one cupful of boiling milk. Soak one pound of figs (the pulled figs) in water to cover until quite soft. Split each in half, dip into dissolved gelatin and use to line the sides of circular molds. Make a soft custard of a pint of milk, five egg yolks and one-half cupful of sugar. When well-thickened add the rest of the gelatin and with this fill the fig-lined molds. When cold, unmold by dipping into hot water. Pile on top of each some gooseberry jelly and eat with plain, thick cream.

Chocolate Junket.—Melt a square of chocolate; add three tablespoonfuls of boiling water. Heat a quart of milk just lukewarm. Dissolve one junket tablet in a tablespoonful of cold water. Add one-quarter of a cupful of sugar to the milk, with a tablespoonful of vanilla; stir until well mixed; add the junket and the chocolate and pour into sherbet cups.

Coffee Ambrosia.—Make one quart of strong coffee; allow this to cool after straining, then add one-half cupful of honey, a few drops of almond extract, a pinch of powdered mace, two cupfuls of iced milk; mix well. Serve in glasses with a few spoonfuls of ice and a spoonful of whipped cream.

Lettuce and Peanut Salad.—Prepare fresh, crisp lettuce and sprinkle with coarsely-chopped fresh peanuts. Serve with a good French dressing poured over all, well chilled.

Lemon Sirup.—This is nice to use and is always ready. Take one cupful of water, one-third of a cupful of lemon juice and one-half cupful of sugar; boil for a few minutes and bottle. Use a spoonful of the sirup to a glass of water with ice.

A few stewed plump prunes served on nice head lettuce with a good snappy dressing makes a most tasty salad and a simple one to prepare.

TODAY WE CELEBRATE

THE STARS AND STRIPES.

The Stars and Stripes as the first National flag of the United States, was first unfurled in the battle on the banks of the Brandywine, 147 years ago today. This battle in which the German mercenaries, led by Baron Knyphausen took a prominent part, and in which General Lafayette was badly wounded, was a defeat for Washington, though by exceptional strategy and skill he was able to extricate the Patriot army and make a retreat to Chester. The American flag received its first baptism of blood in this conflict, but it had been previously displayed at Fort Schuyler, on the site of the present city of Rome, N. Y. This garrison made the banner by cutting up sheets to form the white stripes, bits of scarlet cloth for the red stripes and the blue ground for the stars was cut from a cloth cloak. The great Admiral Paul Jones was the first to display the Stars and Stripes on a naval vessel when he sailed from Portsmouth, N. H., on the U. S. S. Ranger on November 1, 1777. The starry banner first floated over a foreign stronghold in June, 1778, when Capt. Rathbone, commander of the U. S. S. Sloop Providence, captured Fort Nassau, in the Bahamas. On December 5, 1782, when George III acknowledged the independence of the United States, the Stars and Stripes were first displayed in Great Britain by John Singleton Copley, an American painter, then resident in London. The whaling ship Beford of Nantucket, was the first to reach a British port flying the flag of the new republic.

DAUGHTERS OF THE CONFEDERACY.

The first meeting of the United Daughters of the Confederacy was held in Nashville, Tenn., thirty years ago today, September 10, 1894, when a permanent organization was effected. The society admits to membership the widows, wives, mothers, sisters and lineal female descendants of the men who served honorably in army and navy of the C. S. A. and its rolls include the names of a majority of the leading women of the southern states. Its objects, aptly described in its constitution, are "Social, literary, historical, monumental, benevolent and honorable in every degree, without any political significance whatever." In carrying on their purpose "to perpetuate honor, integrity, valor and other noble attributes of true southern character," the D. O. U. C. have erected memorials to Dixie's heroes in cities throughout the south.

The United Confederate Veterans were organized at New Orleans in 1889, and the Sons of Confederate Veterans held their first meeting in 1896.

MRS. ANN CHASE.

Mrs. Ann Chase was the wife of the American consul at Tampico, Mexico, during the war of 1846-7. On the 14th of November, 1846, she performed a noteworthy act of patriotism and daring which should not be forgotten. She not only gave Commodore Connor full information in regard to the defense of the place, with a plan of the harbor, town and forts, but when the squadron was approaching, though opposed by the city council, and even menaced, she hoisted the American flag, and persisting in waving it beneath the very eye of the "ayuntamiento."

Honest Man

A well-known novelist said at dinner in Pasadena:

"We educate our young people in too materialistic a way, and if we don't look out the moral standards of the next generation will be like the taxicab driver's.

"A taxicab driver applied for a job.

"'Are you honest?' they asked him.

"'Oh, yes; quite.'

"'Perfectly honest?'

"'Perfectly.'

"'Suppose you found a pocketbook containing negotiable securities worth $100,000 in your taxicab, what would you do?'

"'Do?' said the taxicab driver. 'I'd do nothing. I'd live on my income.'" —Louisville Courier-Journal.

The Sacred Carpet

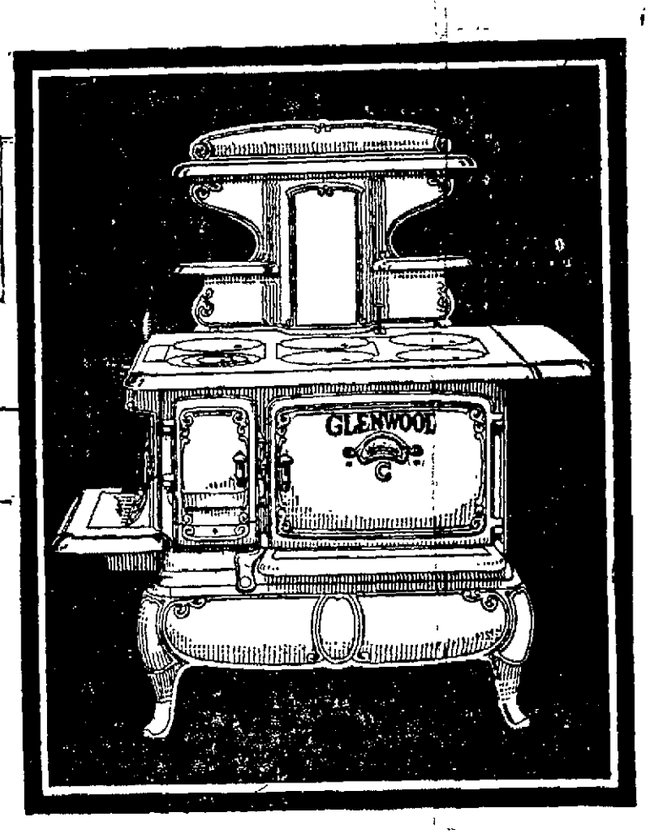
Mecca, the capital of Arabia and the cradle of Islam, will this year have to do without the sacred carpet, on which the prophet is supposed to have said his prayers. This carpet, kept by the kings of Egypt, will no longer be taken to Mecca at the time of the pilgrimages. It is the abolition of the caliphate by the Turks which has created this situation. The king of Hedjas desires henceforth to be the one and only real caliph. The kings of Egypt, however, do not agree with this pretention, and the sacred carpet will remain in Cairo.

"There Is So Much More Room In This Glenwood Oven"



WHEN baking day comes round you'll always appreciate the big roomy oven of a Glenwood range. Here's the Model "C," for instance. Its oven is wide and deep with plenty of space to adjust the sliding rack at different heights. The corners are four-square, allowing you the full width of the oven bottom for anything that needs to be baked very slowly and thoroughly.

The indicator on the door tells you just how hot to keep your fire for cakes, pies, roasts and biscuits. May we show you this range, some day soon?

Finished in pearl-gray porcelain enamel or in plain black. To furnish plenty of hot water we can equip this range with either a water front for urban districts or a special reservoir for rural homes.

'Sconset School Of Opinion Busy

Formed Informally for Exchange of Ideas, It Developed Into Established Institution Where Men Play Between Talks on Serious Subjects.

On the walls of an old barn in the quaint little fishing village of Siasconset, Massachusetts, there is inscribed,

"Where once fine horses tossed their manes
And champed their oats and hay,
Now daily flock the folk with brains
To dine and talk and play."

This is suggestive of the 'Sconset School of Opinion which began three years ago in the old fishing village of Siasconset, Massachusetts, at a gathering of a score or more writers, dramatists, scientists and psychologists who sat around the tables and discussed the questions of the day. They talked freely, expansively and indulged their enthusiasms and ideals. Other people gathered around them and by the end of September two hundred and fifty people had become a School of Opinion, which has grown into an established institution on the Island of Nantucket, whose harbors seventy-five years ago claimed upwards of three hundred whaling vessels as their home. Year by year the school has attracted an increasing group of men and women from the universities, editorial rooms and from the arts to talk about the things that seem to them more important in the world. The second session of the school was devoted to man and man's world, while this year's session which opened September 1st, is concerned with American civilization, what it is and what it is likely to become. James Harvey Robinson, the author of "The Mind in the Making," gave direction to the school, which is more like the mediaeval college of Europe than like the modern American university. The lecture room is open to the seas and the moors. Lectures are informal and intimate: they even smoke in the class room and between lectures they play upon the lawns, go in bathing, organize folk dancing, dramatics and musicales. The human mind is the principal thing and instructin is by the spoken word rather than through text books.

Dr. Frederick C. Howe, the director of the school, believes that every man and every woman has unexplored enthusiasm and possibilities in life, which if they can be discovered and aroused will increase happiness as well as efficiency. "Opinion," he says, "moves the world. Men like Emerson, Lincoln, Walt Whitman, William James and George Bernard Shaw have created values for the world and shaped its course. America needs individuality. It needs personalities. The human mind is the most important thing. It is far more important than gasoline engines or flying machines. Men should be encouraged to believe in themselves, in the worth whileness of life and in making it what they will. And this is the motive of the school. It awakens personality. It stimulates enthusiasm. It aims to destroy inhibitions."

Among the speakers at the September session are Sinclair Lewis, the novelist, Everett Dean Martin, the director of the People's Institute, a popular university at Cooper Union, New York; Horace M. Kellen, the literary executor of William James; Harry W. L. Dana, the dramatic critic; Dr. Walton H. Hamilton, formerly of Amherst and now of Washington, D. C.; Lewis Gannett, one of the editors of the Nation, and Dr. Albert L. Crane, formerly chief psychologist, of the Institute for Juvenile Research, Chicago.

The school has gathered around itself an increasing group of literary men and scientists who spend their summers at Siasconset. Among them are Bruce Bliven, editor of the New Republic, George Middleton, the dramatist, and Floyd Dell, the novelist; while Kenneth McGowan, director of the Provincetown theatre; Herbert Adams Gibbons, traveler and author; Stephen H. Duggan of the Carnegie Institute and Professor Elton Mayo of the University of Pennsylvania have spent part of their summer there.

The atmosphere is informal. The school meets in an old barn. The speaker sits at a gayly painted table—or frequently on it. He talks—without notes. After an hour of talk, there is a period of discussion. Then everybody goes in swimming. People wear sports' clothes. They have a good time.

SEEDING THE LAWN.

Right Kind of Seed Mixture Most Important—Fall Seeding Advocated.

Establishing new lawns or rejuvenating old lawns may well be done in the fall of the year according to the seed analyst at the New York State Agricultural Experiment Station at Geneva who advocates fall seeding because the grass can make an earlier start in the spring when sown at this season. Aside from the time of seeding, the battle is half won in making a good lawn with the use of clean, vigorous seed mixtures containing the right kind of gresses for lawn seeding, declares this authority who warns against the dangers of poor lawn grass mixtures.

Many mixtures have been placed on the market as lawn grass mixtures which, upon examination at the State Seed Laboratory, have been found to contain a high percentage of chaff and dirt and many kinds of weed seeds, and to be made up quite largely of grasses entirely unsuited for lawn purposes. Such mixtures are usually sold in five and ten cent stores and elsewhere in pasteboard boxes holding 7 ounces or less in order to evade the terms of the seed law, which requires a statement as to the composition of grass mixtures sold in quantities of 8 ounces or more.

The purchase of high grade Kentucky bluegrass seed and redtop seed and mixing them at home at the rate of two part bluegrass to one part redtop is advocated as an excellent means of securing a really desirable general purpose lawn grass mixture. A small amount of white dutch clover may be added to the mixture if one likes clover. This mixture should be sown at the rate of one-half ounce per square yard for old lawns or one ounce per square yard for a new lawn and should be raked in lightly.

Don't Fertilize Apple Orchards

At Least it is Not Profitable on Better Fruit Soils of New York, Say Specialists.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Geneva, N. Y., Sept. 10.—Commercial fertilizer applied annually for the past twenty-five years in a Rome Beauty apple orchard on the grounds of the experiment station here have failed to pay for the time and labor of applying them, according to statements made in a report on the experiments recently published by the station in Bulletin No. 516, which is now available for free distribution.

"In western New York apple orchards that are well drained, properly cultivated and supplied with organic matter and humus by means of cover crops, commercial fertilizers are not needed," says Dr. U. P. Hedrick, station horticulturist who is joint author with Prof. H. B. Tukey, associate horticulturist, of the report describing the experiments upon which this statement is based. "In the sod orchards it has been shown repeatedly that fertilizers containing nitrogen are decidedly beneficial. Orchards on sandy, gravelly soil of low fertility or on shallow, drouthy ground may respond to fertilizer treatment, and the station experiment would not be a safe guide under such conditions. For the better fruit soils of western New York, however, it is evident that careful cultivation and attention to pruning, spraying and other orchard operations will give more satisfaction and will be much more economical than the use of commercial fertilizers."

A Fruit Grower's Test.

"So many things may affect an apple tree, however, and orchard conditions may vary so widely that the results obtained in the station experiments do not necessarily hold for other orchards. It may be worth while, therefore, for the fruit grower to make his own fertilizer test. If the orchard is not bearing as well as might be expected or does not seem as vigorous as it should, it might be best to look first to the drainage, cultivation, pruning, spraying and other orchard practices before resorting to fertilizers, as often closer attention to good orchard management will correct the trouble.

"If fertilizers seem to be needed, a simple plan for laying out a test in the home orchard is given in the station bulletin. Such a test does not require any elaborate preparation nor a great deal of time or work. Care must be exercised in keeping records, if the tests are to mean anything, and they should be continued for at least three years. Those who are interested should apply to the station for detailed instructions on how to conduct the test."

THE DIRECTOIRE THEME.

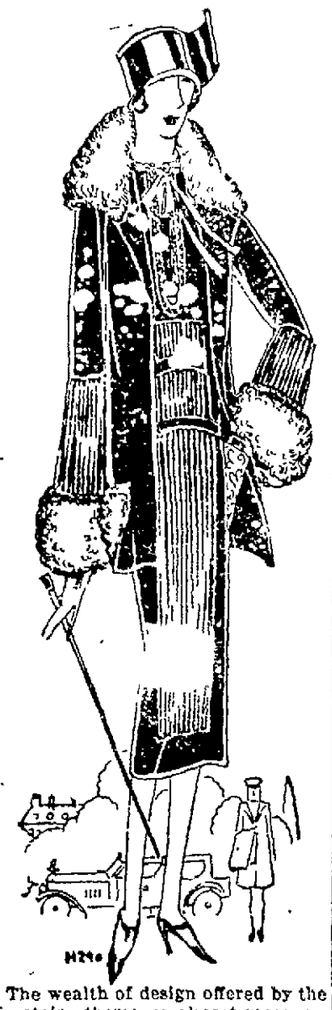
(By Eleanor Ginn.)

The outstanding notes in many collections are of Directoire influence and a trend toward ultra modern ideas in some of the trimmings By this last is meant a fashion of cutting up the cloth of which a model is made, and seaming it together again, either to make bias pokes and folds, or straight squares, triangles and other designs. One of the most striking of these seam patterns outlines a long, slender diamond down the front of the dress, whose upper sides are shorter, and the opposite points of the diamonds are also joined by straight lines making a cross, so that the pattern suggests a child's paper kite.

If the fabric is not worked this way, it is apt to have some pattern in the weave, such as crepes broche in satin designs, velvet brocaded georgette, woolen checks and printed weaves.



The wealth of design offered by the Directoire theme, is almost measureless, and is apparently not only in general aspect, but in details. One perceives in the current beltless frock, devoid of all trimming, and assuming the guise of a sheath, a kind of basis upon which all the appealing features of Directoire styling can be applied. The variety of sleeves, necklines and the characteristic frou-frou has been taken advantage of by French designers, who have not lost sight of them even when styles adopted here were of the simplest order.

Much of the success of the Directoire theme will depend upon the cleverness with which it is handled to conform with present demands. At the same time, if the process of elimination is too strongly indulged in, the whole object of its adoption will be defeated.

Chipso—
a surprising new form of soap
for a new-fashioned washday

WHEN experienced women say "Chipso is the finest form of soap I have ever used in my life," you must know that something very unusual has happened.

Chipso is a sensation—no other word can describe it.

After years of dreary washdays, of fuming tubs and drudgery, Chipso comes with the white magic of its electric suds—and a new washday is here.

New? Yes, Chipso is new! But it is not an experiment. Thousands of women are using Chipso every day—not only for its help towards brilliant laundry results, but for its convenience and safe effectiveness in all kinds of household cleaning; dishes, woodwork, floors.

And with all its advantages, it is economical! The price of the big blue-and-orange package will tell you that!

Remember—whether you boil, soak, or use a washing machine, Chipso and water are all you need! Snow-white Chipso dissolves instantly—no powder or fumes to make you sneeze. A few whisks with your hand, or a few revolutions of the washing machine, and Chipso expands into a sudsy mountain of magic bubbles.

Do your washing by your usual method; but do it with Chipso—quicker—easier—better!

FARMERS SHOULD THINK BEFORE BUYING TRUCKS.

Farmers who are considering buying a motor truck should ask themselves two questions, V. B. Hart, of the state college of agriculture at Ithaca, says in a new bulletin entitled "Farm Motor Trucks in New York."

The first question should be, "Will it pay?" and the second, "Is there any better way to invest money that would be spent for a truck?" He says that the following points should be considered in answering the two questions: Amount of hauling to be done; time and value of horse labor that a truck would save; first cost and probable operating cost of a suitable truck compared with cost of hauling with horses; probable length of time snow and mud would prevent use of a truck; probable development of new and improved highways in the section; and the possibility of developing new markets by means of a truck.

If after a consideration of these points it appears that a truck would be a good financial investment for the farm business, and that the money could not be more profitably invested somewhere else, the farmer is safe in buying one.

The farm motor truck is an important factor in increasing the food supply, Mr. Hart declares, for the use of trucks has made it possible profitably to raise bulky and perishable products at a greater distance from a railroad than formerly. Especially is this true of market milk, fresh fruits and vegetables. This bringing of more remote land into intensive use and widening of the farmer's market means that more food will reach the consuming public and that more feed and fertilizer will reach the farm.

State to Enforce Headlight Law

Owners of Automobiles With Glaring Headlights Will be Arrested—Inspectors Will Also Pay Attention to Reckless Driving.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, Sept. 10.—Owners of automobiles with glaring headlights will have to "watch their step" after October 1, when the inspectors of the state motor vehicle bureau begin to function, according to officials of the bureau.

Scores of cars are being operated today with lights that do not come under the provision of the law, it was declared today by representatives of the motor vehicle bureau. They are convinced that many serious accidents are caused by glaring headlights.

Charles A. Harnett, state motor vehicle commissioner, intends to see to it that every provision of the new law is strictly enforced, including that dealing with headlights.

The new inspectors have been trained so they can tell at a glance whether headlights come within the law. It is predicted that scores of arrests will be made after October 1, if the owners of cars do not see to it at once that their lights are legal.

Officials of the motor vehicle bureau are certain that once the corps of inspectors get to work on the highways of the state the number of automobile fatalities and accidents will be reduced to a minimum.

Reckless driving also is to be given a great deal of attention by the inspectors. After a person has been arrested two or three times for reckless driving he will be in danger of having his license suspended, according to the motor vehicle bureau officials.

The inspectors also will keep a close watch for motor cars operated by intoxicated drivers. The new law provides that a person convicted of driving a car while intoxicated must be given a prison sentence. Many accidents in the past have been caused by drunken drivers, according to state officials.

Hunting Outlook Good in State

Pheasants, Grouse and Rabbits Plentiful in Most Sections—Dogs Kill Young Birds and Rabbits.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, Sept. 8.—Reports received by the Conservation Commission from game protectors all over the state show that in nearly all districts pheasants, partridges and cottontail rabbits are going to be plentiful during the approaching hunting season. It was feared that the cold wet spring would be injurious to the grouse, but except in comparatively few districts this has not proved to be the case. In many districts where cottontail rabbits were found suffering from disease last year the rabbits appear to have recovered and are reported in large number. In Warren county, however, Inspector Burmaster reports that because of disease the rabbits are nearly gone.

Grouse are more plentiful than usual in those districts where there is suitable cover. The disease that was affecting grouse a year ago in many districts threatening a serious decrease in the supply has not appreciably reduced the number.

In Inspector Johnston's division, which includes the counties of Albany, Columbia, Greene, Schenectady, Saratoga, Washington and Rensselaer, this disease last year was particularly destructive and Inspector Johnston had his protectors this year made a careful observation of conditions. He reports that in all sections of his division extra large broods of grouse have been observed, from ten to twelve in a brood, while in former years broods averaged four to five. He adds: "I have given particular attention to the grouse this year making many inquiries from reliable sources for the reason that last fall we sent several grouse to Dr. Allen of Cornell University for examination. Some of the birds sent from Petersburg and Berlin were very badly infected with diapharagus and one contained a large ascardis worm. Dr. Allen requested me to watch these localities of Berlin and Petersburg during the winter and also in the nesting season. We watched these localities and up to the present time the grouse appear to have increased. Within a quarter of a mile from Protector Nelson's house in Berlin where infected birds were found last year, the birds are more plentiful than a year ago, and Protector Nelson has seen many young full broods."

In Inspector Brackett's division comprising the counties of Chautauqua, Cattaraugus, Erie, Genesee, Niagara, Orleans and Wyoming, game protectors report seeing numerous broods of young pheasants and indications are that the coming open season will find a plentiful supply of these birds. Protectors also report that the ruffed grouse are increasing slowly in that section. Reports from Oswego county show that broods of young grouse were small this year, averaging only six or seven to the brood, while in Cayuga county the birds are more plentiful. With a few exceptions throughout Inspector Weston's division in central New York the outlook for grouse is good.

While in a few districts pheasants are reported not as plentiful as usual the general tenor of the reports indicate that these birds are increasing in most districts in the state. In Madison county they are so plentiful that many fish and game clubs did not ask for their usual allotment of pheasant eggs for hatching out young birds. In Onondaga county both pheasants and young broods have suffered greatly near the villages from dogs running at large during the season when birds have young and are nesting.

Reports on cottontail rabbits from nearly all districts are that they are plentiful. In central New York where many rabbits were found last year suffering from the disease that necessitated throwing them away after they were killed, no trace of disease has been discovered thus far. In Greene county cottontails are reported more plentiful than in the past five years.

Ward Explains Defense Day

General Who Served With 27th Division Says Knowledge of Our Ability to Mobilize Quickly Will Safeguard Our Borders.

Brigadier General Franklin W. Ward, who served overseas with the Twenty-seventh Division, sat in the councils at Washington when the mobilization plan now approaching its first test was being prepared. Drafting of the plan has occupied nearly five years.

General Ward has made clear the purpose of Defense Day, on Friday, in the following statement:

Defense Day, upon which the war department mobilization plan receives its first test, is much misunderstood. This plan does not mean organization for aggressive warfare, as many appear to believe. People do not appreciate that the word defense really means the defense of the United States, not preparation for any war of aggrandizement.

War is a ruthless thing that we never want to have again visited upon us, with its terrible toll of lives, destruction of industries and the devastation of entire communities.

It is proposed only to upbuild a defense system within the continential limits of the United States. The plan is only to send the National Guard and the citizen army to the frontiers of our land to defend them. It does not propose to send troops to the Philippines or other island possessions. The regular establishments, army and navy, will have to take care of these in the coming of necessity.

The mobilization plan was not formed to raise armies for war on foreign soil, but only to defend the United States itself. And the knowledge that we are ready now, still will be ready, to throw an armed force of 2,000,000 men to our borders in the first phase of a national mobilization will be the surest safeguard that our borders will never be assailed.

It is not to raise senseless war cries that Defense Day is arranged. It is to reveal by practical test how far we have progressed toward realization of this plan of internal defense. Surely that is one lesson we can borrow from the late war, with all its tragedies. It is the wisdom brought from that most tragic time in the world's history. It is one thing to be a warrior, seeking to oppress and destroy. It is another to be a soldier ready courageously, and expertly, to speed the defense within the nation's own continental limits.

It is just this and no more that makes Defense Day one of the most significant dates in American history. For we have never before been able comprehensively to defend ourselves. So doing, we will have created an indomitable argument for our peace, which except for this, one day might have to be won through inefficient and appalling war wastage.

THE WHY, WHEN AND WHERE OF FASHIONS

(Grebe).

Milliners and dressmakers are thumbing various reference books to find something about this family of diving birds, the plumage of which became suddenly so fashionable through the dictates of Paris. Museums in large cities contain specimens of Eskimo dresses made of the skin of such birds. These garments are absolutely water and hurricane proof, although somewhat thick and clumsy. The plumage of grebe is short and very close, and the outer or covering feathers are usually brown. The under feathers, however, are soft, downy, and are a beautiful glossy white.

Eskimos were not the only ones to appreciate grebe feathers as ornaments. Fanny Burney, who, under the nom de plume of Madame d'Arblay, created a sensation in the XVIII century, mentions in her Early Diary under date of 1781, trimmings of grebe feathers, and in her letter written to Mrs. Thrale in January of the same year, she describes a dress to be trimmed with grebe and gold.

These feathers remained more or less in vogue afterward to such an extent that in the 70's of the past century, a soft, downy cotton cloth was put on the market under the name of grebe cloth. The feathers were used toward the end of that century not only for hats but also for boas and muffs, but by 1885 protective acts in England had almost banished this plumage from the market. Fashion must have found new sources of supply, however, because fashion magazines of 1899 from England state that practically all the brown cloth costumes of that time were trimmed with grebe.

"Too Happy to Live"; Rich Youth Kills Self

Quebec.—The body of an unidentified young man who apparently had committed suicide because wealth had made him "too happy," was found beside a limousine bearing a New York state license, near St. Come de Beauce, close to the Maine border. A note pinned to the coat read:

"Do not mind me. My name would be useless to you. But I wish the world to know that I committed suicide because I was too happy. I always got what I wanted in my life. My parents are millionaires. I do not find life good enough to remain in it. I have a strong longing to find out what there is in another life."

There was a bullet wound in the head.

No Typhoid Cases In September

Kingston Had Four Cases During August—Board of Health Transacts Routine Business at Monthly Session

There were four cases of typhoid fever reported in Kingston during August according to Health Officer Daniel Connelly's report submitted Tuesday evening at the regular meeting of the board of health, but no cases have been reported so far this month.

Mayor Morris Block presided at the meeting Tuesday with Dr. E. E. Norwood, Mrs. C. E. Hasbrouck, and Mrs. Thomas J. Hickey present. Only routine matters were disposed of and bills audited.

Plumbing Inspector Edgar A. Holstein, who is confined to his home on the Strand by illness, reported to the board by letter that he had appointed Frank A. Myers to act as temporary inspector while he was confined to his home. The board approved the appointment. Mr. Myers is now serving as plumbing inspector.

The reports of the officers, which were read and filed, follow:

What Are They All Saying About "One-Shot"?

NOTABLE among the new features of the 1925 Cleveland Six is the "One-Shot" Lubrication System which eliminates all greasing of the chassis by hand.

No other automotive improvement of the year is the subject of so much discussion.

Owners now are often being stopped and asked, "Is it as marvelous as I have heard? Show me how it works!"

Step on the Plunger—And Oil the Entire Car

To lubricate all moving chassis parts, you merely step on a plunger. You do not leave the driver's seat. You never have to use a grease gun or an oil can.

With this exclusive, patented feature, you are saved the frequent inconvenience of leaving your car for several hours for a thorough greasing.

The danger of neglected chassis lubrication will never bother you again.

Your car is always free from squeaks and rattles. For "One-Shot" can be used whether the car is standing still or moving.

See this famous feature of the newest, finest Cleveland Six!

Mileage Motor—Four-Wheel Brakes—Balloon Tires

Then after you have seen how "One-Shot" works—get behind the wheel and test the Mileage Motor.

Its phenomenal hill-climbing power, flashing pick-up, and speed of over 60 miles an hour, make it probably the most efficient power plant in use today.

Study the entire car and you will sense the reason for its popularity:—

Bodies that are roomy and aristocratic in appearance; genuine super-size balloon tires as standard equipment; four-wheel brakes as optional equipment at a slight extra cost; and rugged, long-life construction throughout.

So fine a car was never obtainable at so low a price. Arrange today to drive yourself! Touring car, $1095; Five-passenger sedan, $1395; f. o. b. Cleveland.

Heavy Fighting Near Shanghai

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Shanghai, Sept. 10.—Private advices received at Chekiang headquarters this afternoon declared that Chang Tso-Lin, Manchurian war lord, would open his heralded attack on Wu Pei-Fu, Chihli military leader, Shanha-Ikuan today or tomorrow.

Shanha-Ikuan is the eastern terminal of the Great Wall of China and a port on the gulf of Liaotung. It is on the Mukden Railroad and the logical base for Chang's expected drive for Peking.

Heavy fighting was in progress today in the Hungtu sector, the Chekiang forces continuing their offensive movement against the Kiangsu troops.

The Chekiang soldiers are receiving printed leaflets, signed by Marshal Chang Tso-Lin, war lord of Manchuria, urging them to be courageous and asserting that he is now marching six armies of 30,000 men each against Pekin.

Foreigners have been forbidden to enter the zone of fighting without passes. Barbed wire barricades have been erected across all the roads leading into the foreign settlement as a measure of safety.

Society Notes

The St. Peter's Sewing Circle will hold a social meeting at St. Peter's School Hall on Thursday afternoon. Members and friends are invited to attend.

Palmateer-Snyder.

The marriage of Miss Elsie Snyder, daughter of Mrs. Ida Snyder of Highland, to Wilbur Palmateer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Palmateer, was solemnized Sunday night at 9:30. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William A. Dalton, pastor of the Highland Presbyterian Church. The couple were attended by Winifred Palmateer and Miss Kathryn Rhodes. The couple left for a motor trip through the eastern states.

Golden Wedding Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. John C. Seitz of Glasco celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at their home on Saturday, September 6, at the home of their son, Arthur Seitz, at Hollis, Long Island. Floral decorations included a huge wedding bell, under which the marriage ceremony of a half century ago was repeated. Dinner was served to the guests and the remainder of the evening was spent enjoyably with dancing and singing, interspersed with violin selections by grandsons of Mr. and Mrs. Seitz. The guests included Mr. and Mrs. John C. Seitz of Glasco, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Ward and family of Corona, L. I., Mr., and Mrs. W. H. Seitz and family of Seabright, N. J., Mr. and Mrs. Arthur DeWitt of Elmhurst, L. I., Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Seitz and family of Jersey City, N. J., Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Seitz, of Hollis, L. I., Mr. and Mrs. Emil Scherpich of Hempstead, L. I., Mr and Mrs. Eugene Duerr of Kingston, Mrs. Kate Stahl of New York city, and Jerome Scherpich of Hempstead, L. I.

"Bull" Montana

"Bull" Montana (whose front name is Louis) is one of the best known among the men of the "movies." He was born in Voghera, Italy. He became famous as a wrestler in his native country and then emigrated to the United States and established himself in Los Angeles. At one time he served as trainer for Champion Jack Dempsey, the pugilist. "Bull" is five feet, ten inches tall and weighs 180 pounds. He is of dark complexion; his eyes and hair are brown.

The Why of Superstitions

By H. IRVING KING

SHOES UNTIED

IN SOME sections of the country there is a common superstition that it brings good luck to have one's shoes come untied. This is but another phase of the ancient belief of sympathetic magic, that phase which has to do with the doctrine of obstructive knots in connection with other current superstitions. Tie up a knot and you tie up the man; unloosen the knot, you free the man. The cavemen's reasoning originating from the fact that "Man, having come to associate in thought those things which he found by experience to be connected in fact, proceeded to erroneously invert this action and to conclude that association in thought must involve similar connection in reality.

Of this sympathetic magic Professor Frazer says: "Among the ignorant and superstitious today it is very much what it was thousands of years ago in Egypt and India and what it is now among the lowest savages surviving in the remotest parts of the earth." The learned professor would appear to indicate the ignorant as the class among whom alone superstition prevails. But a little observation will show that superstition is confined to no one class, but exists, though less ostentatiously, among the cultivated and high placed; and he who most loudly boasts of his freedom from its trammels is often found to be secretly influenced by superstitions inherited from the lost ages. He has his pet superstitions and hides them; perhaps jams them down into his subconscious self and flouts them. But they exist and they are his, and they influence him. The savage and the peasant, on the other hand, display their superstitions unblushingly. That is the only difference. When it comes to a question of superstition, "the colonel's lady and Julie O'Grady are sisters under their skins."

Financial and Commercial

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Sept. 10.—For the most part today's session of the stock market was dull and irregular, with spurts of activity punctuating the efforts of professional traders to force prices up or down with varying degrees of success. St. Paul was the leader of the reactionaries and the independent oils leading the constructive forces.

Bearish operators had more success today in checking the forward movement of prices, despite the fact that the preponderance of economic developments were in favor of the bulls.

The rally in prices continued however, until shortly after the noon hour, with the independent oils leading a spirited advance. Some of the prominent stocks in that group on gains of a point or more, reached the highest price level in the current movement.

The bears considered the time propitious for extending their short lines. Beginning with the speculative leaders which fell back 2 to 4 points on comparatively light pressure, they gradually extended their sales to other parts of the list, where limited buying was encountered with prices declining in the same way. Some of the oil shares which were the enthusiastic leaders of the forward movement in the morning dropped their new gains as easily as they acquired them, and with losses of a point or more it was apparent that there was not much stability to the new price level set up in the early trading.

Union Bag and Paper was the next stock to feel the effects of the passing of the regular dividend, taken by the directors today.

The stock fell 4½ points to a new low but recovered two points. Jones tea was set back nearly 4 points and made a new low, on heavy selling concentrated on a short period. Daniel Bbone woolen was only temporarily weak on the passage of its dividend after the close of yesterday's sessions; American Ice received a new broadside and lost about 4 points, while the preferred was also down four points; United States Steel after reaching 108, declined to 105⅝; American Can lost 3 points at 124¼.

Cotton prices sustained additional losses of about 50 points on Hedge selling and southern liquidation, grain markets were steady, bonds were inactive and firm; money rates unchanged.

Prince May Stay for Whole Series

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Syosset, N. Y., Sept. 10.—His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales may stay here longer than he had at first intended.

It all depends upon the result of the international polo series between British and American fours which begins at Westbury Saturday.

The prince had planned to leave Saturday for his ranch at High River, Alberta, but if there has been no decisive result in the polo play before that time, he will stay to see the series through, according to Capain A. F. Lascelles, his equerry, but he denied reports the Canadian trip had been called off.

Sir Esme Howard, British ambassador and Lady Isabella Howard visited the Burden estate this morning to say good bye to the Prince. They are leaving Long Island tomorrow for the British summer embassy at Manchester, Mass.

The Prince planned to play polo this morning. His injured eye is much better. He had no definite plans for the afternoon, but tonight he will attend a reception and dinner at the Jericho home of Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, II.

A dinner-dance in the Prince's honor was given last night at the Harrison Williams home at Glen Cove. After leaving there the Prince went to the home of Mrs. Ronald Tree, in Old Westbury, where there was dancing for a limited number of guests.

The Prince played polo for a short time this morning at Phipps Field. He felt rather tired and quit the game after the seventh chukker. He then went back to the Burden home for luncheon.

Dawes Plan Now In Operation

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Paris, Sept. 10.—Carrying out the terms of the London reparations protocol, France and Belgium have ceased the collection of customs duties between occupied and unoccupied Germany, the foreign office announced this afternoon. Collections ended at midnight. Under the new scheme all revenues are controlled under the Dawes plan.

LOCAL DEATH RECORD.

Recent Deaths and Funerals of Persons in This Vicinity.

A month's mind Mass will be offered in St. Mary's Church Thursday morning at 7 o'clock in memory of Mrs. Robert J. Dwyer.

James Schoonmaker died this morning at his home in Ellenville. Funeral from his late residence, 14 Pine street, Ellenville, Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Ella M. Swart, widow of Peter H. Swart, died Tuesday evening at her home in Ruby in the 89th year of her age. Funeral from the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Joseph Spoonhauer, Thursday afternoon, at 1 o'clock and from the Ruby Church at 2 o'clock. Interment in Mount Marion Cemetery.

Sarah Lyons died at her home, 995 Sixth avenue, New York city, on Tuesday. She was a daughter of the late John and Hanorah Lyons. The surviving relatives are three sisters, Kathryn, Nellie and Marie Lyons all of New York city. Miss. Lyons had a number of friends in this city, where she was a frequent visitor. Funeral from St. Patrick's Cathedral, New York city, Thursday morning at 9:30 o'clock, the remains arriving in this city at 2:15 o'clock upon the arrival of the West Shore train. Interment in the family plot in St. Mary's Cemetery.

The funeral of Mrs. John J. Wolf was held from her late home at Connelly this morning at 9 o'clock and at 9:30 from St. Peter's Church where a requiem Mass was offered for the repose of her soul by the Rev. Joseph Ostermann. The services were largely attended by her many relatives and friends. At the conclusion of the Mass, Harry Zellmer sang "Calvary." The bearers were members of the family. The Rev. Father Ostermann accompanied the remains to the family plot in St. Peter's Cemetery, where the committal services and interment took place.

ed. "Dickie" cracked and "came through." He cried for water and promised to tell everything.

What they confessed to was this: First, they were bored. Money had given them everything for nineteen years, and now it no longer could give them what they wished most—a thrill. They thought if they planned and committed the "perfect crime" that would provide the much sought thrill.

Accordingly, as early as November, 1923, they began their scheming. Ten thousand dollars, got in a criminal way, to them would be as sweet as stolen jam to a boy. They decided they might go to Europe with it.

How they were to collect this money from a man as yet unpicked was their first problem. They concluded that he was to throw it from a train they would designate at a spot to be determined by counting five, beginning with the train's passage past a certain factory.

Dick Struck Blow.

It so "happened" that Bobby Franks was the victim, Nathan and "Dickie" rode to his school in an automobile and coaxed the lad into the motor car.

Although each prisoner for a long time accused the other of having done the actual murder, it subsequently developed that it was "Dickie" who put his hand over Bobby's mouth to stifle his outcries and then beat him repeatedly on the head with a cold-chisel tapered especially for this purpose.

Bobby did not die as quickly as the slayers had hoped he would, so "Dickie" dragged him into the rear seat and stuffed cloths into his mouth. He died soon after, presumably from suffocation.

Then they drove toward Gary, Ind. Their afternoon's labors had given them an appetite, so they stopped along the way to buy sandwiches, covering the body with a robe, meanwhile.

After removing Bobby's clothing, the murderers poured acid on the face to hinder identification, after which they carried Bobby's body, in the robe, to the tracks, where it was crammed into the culvert.

Then they mailed letters to the elder Franks, instructing him how to deposit the $10,000 they demanded for his son's safe return. Leopold confessed that they had no intention of returning Robert to his parents. He said the murder was not a slip in their plans at all. They had intended from the first to murder their victim and try to collect the ransom afterward.

element to make the crime abhorrent to every instinct of humanity, and the court is satisfied that neither in the act itself, nor in its motive or lack of motive, nor in the antecedents of the offenders, can he find any mitigating circumstances.

"For both the crimes of murder and of kidnapping for ransom, the law prescribes different punishments in the alternatives.

"For the crime of murder, the statute declares:

" 'Whoever is guilty of murder, shall suffer the punishment of death, or imprisonment in the penitentiary for his natural life, or for a term not less than fourteen years.'

" 'If the accused is found guilty by a jury, they shall fix the punishment by their verdict; upon a plea of guilty, the punishment shall be fixed by the court.'

"For the crime of kidnapping for ransom, the statute reads:

" 'Whoever is guilty of kidnapping for ransom shall suffer death, or be punished by imprisonment in the penitentiary for life, or any term not less than five years.'

"Under the plea of guilty, the duty of determining the punishment devolves upon the court and the law indicates no rule or policy for the guidance of his discretion.

"In reaching his decision the court would have welcomed the counsel and support of others. In some states the legislature in its wisdom has provided for a bench of three judges to determine the penalty in cases such as this. Nevertheless, the court is willing to meet his responsibilities. It would have been the path of least resistance to impose the extreme penalty of the law. In choosing imprisonment instead of death, the court is moved chiefly by the consideration of the age of the defendants, boys of 18 and 19 years. It is not for the court to say that he will not in any case enforce capital punishment as an alternative, but the court believes that it is within his province to decline to impose the sentence of death on persons who are not of full age.

"This determination appears to be in accordance with the progress of criminal law all over the world and with the dictates of enlightened humanity. More than that, it seems to be in accordance with the precedents hitherto observed in this state. The records of Illinois show only two cases of minors who were put to death by legal process—to which number the court does not feel inclined to make an addition.

"Life imprisonment may not, at the moment, strike the public imagination as forcibly as would death by hanging; but to the offenders, particularly of the type they are, the prolonged suffering of years of confinement may well be the severer form of retribution and expiation.

"The court feels it proper to add a final word concerning the effect of the parole law upon the punishment of these defendants. In the case of such atrocious crimes, it is entirely within the discretion of the department of public welfare, never to admit these defendants to parole. To such a policy, the court urges them strictly to adhere. If this course is persevered in, the punishment of these defendants will both satisfy the ends of justice and safeguard the interests of society.

"I therefore sentence you, Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., to the state penitentiary at Joliet, for the remainder of your natural life for the crime of murder and to the same penitentiary for a term of 99 years for the crime of kidnapping for ransom.

"And I sentence you, Richard A. Loeb, to the state penitentiary at Joliet for the remainder of your natural life for the crime of murder and to the same penitentiary for 99 years for the crime of kidnapping for ransom."

Active Volcanoes

Between 600 and 700 volcanoes have been counted in various parts of the world, and of these 270 are still on the active list. Vesuvius was silent for over 2,000 years before it suddenly woke up and in a few hours destroyed Pompeii. Etna is known to have been active as far back as 500 B. C. In 1186 it destroyed 15,000 people, since when at varying intervals it has been the scene of a number of disasters.

New Public Works Board to Meet

Mayor Morris Block has called a meeting of the recently appointed board of public works to be held at the city hall Friday evening. The members of the board are Edward E. Fessenden, William F. Rafferty, the Rev. Robert A. Greenwell and Dr. George F. Chandler, together with the mayor.

At the meeting Friday the board is expected to elect as its officers: Superintendent, W. Scott Van Keuren; assistant superintendent, Fred Baker; city engineer, John F. Hallinan; secretary, John J. Linson. At least that is the slate.

Y. W. C. A. Girls Plan Corn Roast

On Friday evening of this week, the Kingston Y. W. C. A. girls are planning to hold a genuine corn roast, during the supper hour, at "The Ups-and-Downs," as a sort of informal reception to Miss Redman, th new physical director. A jolly good time and an unusually good "feed" is promised, with no expense to those who attend. All girls and woman who wish to enjoy the corn roasts are asked to notify the Y. W. C. A. Headquarters, 'Phone 1911, not later than Thursday evening in order that those in charge may know how many to prepare for. Those attending either meet at the Y. W. building, 14 Henry street—the last group leaving there about 5:30 o'clock—or they may go directly to the Ups-and-Downs.

Physical Training Instructor at Y.W.

Miss Irene Redman, in charge of the physical training and recreation at the Kingston Y. W. C. A., has arrived in town and on Tuesday took up her new duties at the Association Headquarters, 14 Henry street. Miss Redman is a graduate of the Sargent School of Cambridge, Mass., and for the last two years has had charge of the physical training work at the Y. W. C. A. of Nashua, New Hampshire. During the past summer she had full charge and gave instruction in the swimming at the camps of the Nashua and Manchester, N. H., Young Woman's Christian Associations. Miss Redman has already been given a most cordial welcome by those who have met her at the local Y. W.

Dies When Success Is Within Her Grasp

San Jose, Cal.—Driven by fear that she had failed in her final examinations, pretty Miss Ina Sarah Lutz, twenty-one-year-old student of the State Teachers' college, shot herself in the head and died, while a letter telling she had passed her examinations was in the postman's bag.

The girl had failed one examination last winter, after she had been attending the college for two and a half years. She was reinstated, given another chance, and she was taking her final test.

For several mornings she had been rising at three o'clock to cram with facts before she entered the day's examination. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Lutz, heard her moving about in her room. At five o'clock they heard a shot.

Roused from sleep, the girl's father ran to her room and found her lying in a pool of blood, her books, papers and notes by her body. She died a short time later. On the morning delivery of mail the postman brought a letter from the college, telling the girl she had passed her tests.

Liquor Tested on Rats Lands Couple in Jail

Omaha, Neb.—Thirteen sleek rats, penned in a cage in a chemist's laboratory, were instrumental in government agents obtaining conviction of an Omaha man and his wife on a liquor selling charge, with subsequent sentence of a year in jail and a heavy fine for each in Federal court.

The question of sampling the liquor which the pair sold was brought up in court, and to determine whether it was fit for human consumption, the agents submitted it to a chemist. He fed it to the rats and then watched their reaction.

The rodents displayed many of the characteristics of an intoxicated human, the chemist reported. Not one died, rather they all thrived, he declared on the witness stand. Although defense counsel questioned the admissibility of the experiment as evidence, it was allowed to stand as indicating the potency and possibilities of the liquor for beverage purposes.

Primitive Homes

Lava blocks roughly quarried provide the rural Icelander with his building material. His farmstead consists of a group of small cottages joined together. The lava blocks are laid one on the other and the crevices are stopped up with moss or earth. Some of these houses have wood rafters, but the majority of them have whale ribs instead. These are covered with brushwood, on top of which turf is heaped. The turf bears a good crop of grass, which is carefully cut for hay. The houses have no chimneys, and a fire is never kept in any room except the kitchen, even in the coldest weather. The smoke passes out through a hole in the roof. The only windows are pieces of glass, or thin skin, four inches square. No attention is given to ventilation, and the atmosphere of the house is almost unendurable to a foreigner. The natives' sense of smell is deadened by the universal habit of taking snuff.

Postponement Helps British

Luis Lacey, Captain of British Polo Team, Will Be Back in the Lineup Tomorrow—Americans Still Favorites to Win Series.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Sept. 10.—With the postponement of the first match of the international polo series until tomorrow afternoon, it was declared today that the British team might be strengthened by the return to the lineup of Luis Lacey, captain of the invaders. Lacey was declared unfit to play in yesterday's postponed match, owing to illness, but is said to be recovering rapidly. If he resumes his position, the chances of a British victory will be increased although the Americans will remain strong favorites to win not only the match but the series.

Both teams will hold light practices this afternoon, the British for the purpose of concentrating on team play, a department in which they are none too strong.

Original arrangements for the opening match, twice postponed on account of rain, will hold good for tomorrow with the Prince of Wales occupying a box with General Pershing and members of the president's cabinet.

PIRATES SLIPPING IN NATIONAL LEAGUE RACE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Sept. 10.—Pittsburgh, now three full games behind the Giants in the National League pennant race, appeared today to be slipping. Following their double defeat at the hands of the Reds, the Pirates dropped another twin bill to the Cardinals yesterday. New York and Brooklyn were idle.

The Yanks and Tigers gained half a game on the league leading Senators who did not play.

Both Confident As Battle Nears

Wills Can't See How He Can Lose and Firpo is Concerned With Other Affairs—Rickard Estimates Crowd at 60,000.

(By Davis J. Walsh.)

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Sept. 10.—The writer never has seen two men more sanely confident of one and and the same issue than are Harry Wills and Luis Firpo, principals in tomorrow's merry evening of fisticuffs under the auspices of our Mr. Rickard.

With less than 36 hours remaining before the business at hand begins, Firpo this morning looked to the immediate future with vast serenity. He could not conceive of defeat and seemed concerned only with plans for further affairs of the fist hereabouts, immigration officials permitting. Wills was just as confident but a bit more conservative.

He seemed willing to admit that there was a vague possibility of losing. The admission, however, was made with the air of a man who observes that sand paper might be used as a bath towel.

"This is my first shot at the big money and you can bet I'm not going to muff it," Wills said. "I know this baby can hit but I'll be in there hitting too and I think I know more about that game than Firpo. These rushing, aggressive fellows have always been my meat. I see Firpo says he is going to end the fight in a hurry. I hope he tries to, if he does, I figure I'll give him the surprise of his life. I am trained to the minute and haven't a worry in the world. If I lose—and I can't see how I can—it won't be because I'm not ready. The fight gives me my chance to work up a bout with Dempsey. That's enough for me."

The senor was in his habitual mood of deep gloom but it wasn't because he was concerned with the outcome of the fight. Luis is just naturally lugubrious. Having virtually nothing to say, he said it and then went into the silence. Conversing via the handicap of an interpreter, the great man intimated that Wills was just an incident in his crowded, gay young life and that he had weightier matters upon which he wished to concentrate. Asked if he expected to win, he replied simply:

"Of course. I wouldn't be fighting this man if I didn't expect to beat him."

Firpo is the soul of self confidence, being rivalled in this respect only by Benny Leonard. He apparently thinks that the Dempsey knockout was a mistake of some kind but whether he assumes the blame for it himself and placed it upon his handlers he declined to state. The only mistake the writer saw made that particular evening was that Firpo persisted in leading with his chin. He was like the face on the bar room floor, he couldn't get it off.

The betting odds in Wall street, however, continued to say that Firpo is right as far as the Wills matter is concerned They rested today at 6 to 5 on the cave man in spite of the fact that Broadway sharpshooters think highly of Wills and have made him a slight favorite.

There seems to be no unanimity of opinion anywhere, and given favorable conditions, the bout might have been a sell out. Firpo's troubles, however, caused the customers to avoid the box offices for such an extended period that probably not more than 60,000 will attend. At least, that was Rickard's estimate today.

It was estimated today by a firm of local betting commissioners that wagers totalling more than $300,000 would be made on the outcome of the Wills-Firpo bout at Jersey City tomorrow night. More than $150,000 was placed yesterday at odds of 6 to 5 in Firpo's favor, the firm estimated.

Glens Falls Team At Fair Grounds

Today at the Fair Grounds the Glens Falls club is scheduled to play the Colonials. These teams were to meet Tuesday, but were prevented by rain.

The up-state team is one of the few semi-pro teams still intact at this time of the season. These same clubs have met eight times this season with the Colonials getting the lion's share of the wins. Possibly another game will be staged by these same teams at the Fair Grounds on Thursday.

On Sunday next at the Fair Grounds the Hall Community team of Bridgeport, Conn., will be the attraction.

TAGGING ALL THE BASES IN THE MAJOR LEAGUES

The Yanks made hay while the sun was not shining for Washington and gained half a game on the Senators by nosing out the Red Sox in the ninth, 5 to 4. Joe Bush starred for the second day in succession by driving in the winning runs with a pinch double.

A loud explosion was heard in St. Louis as the Pirates flivvered sadly, the Cards taking two games, 7 to 4, and 6 to 4. Sothoron and Stuart were poison to the Corsairs.

The Tigers stretched their winning streak to seven by trimming the White Sox, 7 to 3. The Cobbmen are now four and a half games behind the Senators.

The Cubs crawled a game closed to the first division, defeating the Reds 4 to 3 on O'Farrell's homer. Alexander failed to whiff a batter, but kept Cincinnati's hits scattered.

P.-T. A. SCHOOL NO. 8 FIRST FALL MEETING.

The Parent-Teacher Association of School No. 8, held its first meeting Tuesday afternoon, and in spite of the severe rain there were twenty-four enthusiastic members present.

Professor Michael gave a delightful talk which was thoroughly enjoyed and each member felt inspired to work a little harder and keep a little closed in touch with the organization for the year 1924-25.

As funds must be raised immediately, a food sale will be held at the school Friday, September 19, at 3 o'clock. Every parent in the district is urged to contribute if possible and to patronize this sale.

The P.-T. A. helps the child, and if you are not an active worker you are requested to do your bit and help these mothers and teachers to keep this club growing.
